

Tidal Wave Alert Off Following Violent Peruvian Quake; 83 Dead, 1,000 Injured

Precaution Extends From Hilo To West Coast; Many Evacuated

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The death toll from a violent earthquake along Peru's central coast climbed toward 100 today, but tidal waves generated by the earth shock diminished as they rolled across the Pacific.

Hawaii, where President Johnson was spending the first night of his Asian tour, was put on a tidal wave alert with sirens sounding a warning every hour. Only a minor wave reached Hawaii's shores and the alert was called off.

High seas along the Peruvian coast went down during the night.

Unofficial reports told of 83 dead in Peru from the quake, at least 1,000 injured and unknown numbers homeless, but the count was far from complete.

Many persons spent the night in the streets.

The severe quake, 7.6 on a scale with a maximum of 9, rocked and terrorized the coastal area for about a minute and a half Monday afternoon.

Many Kneel in Prayer

Thousands ran screaming into the streets, village plazas and other open areas as buildings shook and crumbled. Women knelt in prayer while brick and wood cascaded around them.

Peruvian Adm. A. Simec said all available information on the massive wave triggered by the quake had been sent to Hawaiian officials. He said the wave was building as it crossed the Pacific.

and Geodetic Survey in Hawaii, lifted the alert.

There was no report on the U.S. west coast of any unusual tidal action.

Force Food Prices Lower With Boycott

NEW YORK (AP) — Housewives in three cities claimed some success today for their supermarket boycotts as a number of stores cut prices and at least 30 were involved in their own discount war.

In Denver, Colo., where chanting women picketed two big stores Monday in protest over high prices, one large chain scheduled reductions on a wide range of items and another promised 10 per cent mark downs.

Forced Bread Down

Shoppers in Phoenix, Ariz., announced they had succeeded in forcing down bread prices. A spokesman for the group, the local chapter of Housewives for Lower Prices, said it would now begin pressing supermarkets to drop merchandising gimmicks like trading stamps.

In Portland, Ore., some 30 store owners fought a price war touched off by consumer pressure. At one market, milk was selling for 18 cents a gallon and another offered bacon at 68 cents a pound compared to $1.19 elsewhere.

Housewives in Van Nuys, Calif., a Los Angeles suburb, and in Carlsbad, N.M., announced meetings today to form price-busting groups.

Cong Resumes Terror, 8 Killed, 62 Wounded

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong cut loose today with terrorists attacks from Saigon to the northern border area. The U.S. command announced resumption of air attacks on the eastern end of the demilitarized zone.

In five grenade, mine and shooting attacks, terrorists took at least eight lives and wounded 62 persons, including five U.S. servicemen.

In one attack, mines derailed a train. In another, a grenade in a movie house killed or wounded 51 Vietnamese.

The U.S. air bombardment of North Viet Nam was sharply reduced Monday for the third straight day by monsoon rainstorms. But U.S. headquarters reported nine bombing missions against Communist positions in the demilitarized zone, including one against a storage area on the eastern end of the zone.

This was the first U.S. strike east of Highway One since the American command last Friday said it might end the bombing pause it had called in the eastern sector two weeks before.

B52s in Two Raids

U.S. B52 bombers staged two raids in South Viet Nam Monday night. The giant planes returned for a third day to bomb suspected North Vietnamese troop concentrations in the central highlands 35 miles southwest of Kontum City. Other eight-engine bombers hit at a suspected Viet Cong headquarters 70 miles northwest of Saigon, near the Cambodian frontier.

Ground fighting continued on a small scale, with only scattered engagements reported.

Chest Figures

The Ulster County Community Chest Campaign for 1967 is fast approaching the 60 per cent mark with $1,271,336 left to go. This represents 57.7 per cent of the $2,299,600 goal.

The Village of Saugerties is over the halfway mark having raised $4,280 of its $6,500 goal. This represents 65.9 per cent of the goal. Ferroxebe Corporation is separate of the village and has a goal of $11,000. That campaign is yet to get underway.

The Village of New Paltz reported that $2,573 had been raised on its goal of $10,000 or 25.7 per cent.

The extended campaign closes Oct. 31.

Kiwanians Begin Kapers Tonight

The annual edition of the Kiwanis Kapers unfolds for the first of three performances tonight in Kingston High School auditorium starting at 8:15 o'clock.

Judging from the sale of tickets good houses are anticipated for the three night show. Performances also will be presented Wednesday and Thursday nights.

This year's show, a musical comedy in two acts, is entitled The Day We Stopped Fighting and Learned to Frug, or a Saga of Early Ulster County.

The show, written and directed by Donald MacIsaac, will feature Miss Julie Just, a former Miss New York State; Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan and Harry Thayer among others.

Funds raised by the annual productions are used to carry out the Kiwanis Club's scholarship and welfare programs in the community.

Tickets may be obtained at the door.

Cornelius, Resnick Spar; Trooper Meeting Canceled

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — While the State Police superintendent accuses Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick of "a desire for publicity," the congressman suggests that Supt. Arthur Cornelius Jr. has "something to hide."

The spat erupted Monday when Cornelius charged that the Ellenville Democrat improperly had informed newsmen of a scheduled meeting between the two.

Cornelius thereupon canceled the meeting, set for today. It had been arranged to discuss the case of a former trooper who was fired for allegedly failing to obey orders in a dispute.

Resnick countered, however, that he would be at Cornelius' office "as per our appointment."

The former trooper is John Donohue of Peekskill, who was involved in a dispute with Cornelius over a promotion examination at the time he was fired.

Donohue, Resnick said, told him that the former trooper's home telephone may have been wire-tapped after he was released from the force.

The freshman legislator said he then sought the meeting with Cornelius to talk about illegal wire-taps.

Cornelius asserted Monday night, however, that Resnick had arranged a news conference without telling him.

"Your request to me made no reference to a press conference in my office," Cornelius said in a statement.

"Your tactics in this instance are, as previously, indicative of a desire for publicity rather than the facts of matters in which you express concern."

Urges Area Solons Check Esopus Creek

An inspection of the Esopus Creek from the Kingston Shopping Plaza to the pumphouse in the Town of Ulster by Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, has been suggested by Huyler Van Wagenen Sr., chairman of the Lower Esopus Creek Waterway Committee, to see at first hand the need for flood control on the Esopus Creek.

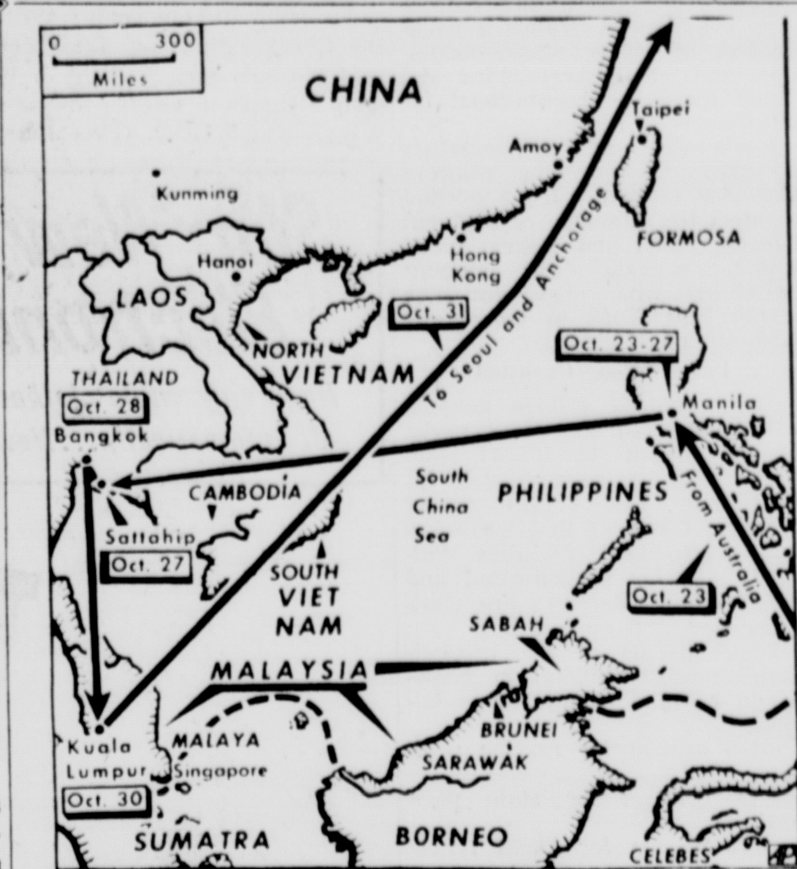

It has been proposed that the inspection trip, by boat, be made on Saturday, Oct. 29, leaving the Kingston Shopping Plaza at 10 a. m.

Challenges U. S. Survey

In a letter to Congressman Resnick and Assemblyman Wilson, Chairman Van Wagenen challenges the survey made by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers and their report of Aug. 10, 1966, in which they advise that inasmuch as it was estimated that flood damage along this creek amounted to $100,000, this amount was "not sufficient damage" to build dikes which the Corps considers flood control.

During the past year the Lower Esopus Creek Waterway Committee was formed for the purpose of securing flood control and to protect this waterway from further damage.

Act to Tab 10th Ward As Rehabilitation Site

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan today revealed action in progress toward designation of the 10th Ward as a rehabilitation site to tie in with local urban renewal.

As a result of a recent meeting of members of the Kingston Housing Authority and the Housing Assistance Administration dealing with the rehabilitation program, he said, he will ask the Common Council to adopt legislation authorizing the city "to file with the Department of Urban Affairs an application" to make the ward what is known as an "Urban Renewal Code Enforcement" project site.

Names Committee

He has named a committee to deal with the project and he also announced that he has learned from School Superintendent W. Wendell Hoover that former School No. 2 in the downtown area could be used for elementary school classes when it is no longer used by the Ulster County Community College.

In explaining the rehabilitation program the mayor noted that the KHA "was encountering much difficulty" in putting it into effect "because of criteria requirements set by the Housing Assistance Administration. After much work and documentation by the authority, a site submitted by them was rejected by the HAA, as it did not meet neighborhood standards, and there is no school within a reasonable distance."

Before the recent meeting, he said, other areas of the city were inspected with the federal officials, and here again the neighborhood criteria could not be met.

At the meeting, he noted, "it was indicated that if the city could show that it was going to do something to uplift the standards of the area where rehabilitation was planned by Housing Code Enforcement, and if the Board of Education gave indication that schools would be available if needed, then the city can look for favorable action from the HAA."

Low Interest Available

If the 10th Ward is declared an Urban Renewal Code Enforcement area, he said, it will "enable residents of the ward to obtain low interest rates to borrow funds to bring their homes up to standard, pay for part of street and light work, and housing code inspectors." No demolition can be done under this type of program, he emphasized. Outright grants up to $1,500 would be available for property owners (Continued on Page 8, Col. 4)

12 Firemen Feared Dead in New York; 17 Others Injured

NEW YORK (AP) — Three aging buildings in an historic corner of downtown Manhattan billowed with flame and choking fumes today in a blaze that may have brought death to 12 firemen — the greatest single loss of life in the department's 101 years of operation.

Six firemen were killed and six others were feared dead, and 17 were injured in the basement of a three-story building on Broadway, just south of Madison Square and across the street from the Flatiron Building, the city's first skyscraper.

The collapse of four floors in the buildings, said to be 75 years old, heaped a "huge mass of debris" upon the lost firemen, said Fire Commissioner Robert O. Lowery.

"So it's going to be slow and tedious, this business of spotting the firemen and recovering their bodies," he said.

A search for the victims was begun by rescue teams with oxygen masks.

Six hours after the first alarm at 9:55 p.m. Monday, tongues of flame still roared from windows and black smoke spread through the streets.

The fire broke out in the basement of 7 E. 22nd St., a four-story building, then spread west to 904 Broadway and north to 8 E. 23rd St.

Sent Into Inferno's Heart

The trapped firemen were caught either by a backdraft or gas explosion. Fire Commissioner Robert O. Lowery said. The impact apparently broke down a wall, sending the men into the heart of the inferno.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately known. The buildings were used by a wide range of businesses, including several clothing firms.

Doubts New Viet War, Peace Plan

HONOLULU (AP) — President Johnson island hops farther across the Pacific today after insisting that the Manila conference will produce neither new strategy for the war in Viet Nam nor a spectacular peace formula.

Johnson, still five days from Manila on his 29,000-mile Asian trip, was heading from Hawaii to New Zealand via Pago Pago, in American Samoa.

Rousing Hawaiian Reception

The President and his wife got a rousing reception Monday in Honolulu. Tens of thousands—many of them young people—lined miles of downtown streets in a friendly colorful greeting. The state's delighted Democratic governor, John A. Burns, gave an unrestrained crowd estimate of 400,000.

Johnson responded in typical fashion, hopping out of his car at least a score of times to shake hands and, when staying inside, shouting through loudspeakers mounted inside the trunk, "Aloha, good to see you."

Whalen Acquires Hoppey's Rest

Gene Whalen, one of the most widely known restaurateurs in the Hudson Valley, who operates a restaurant at Ulster Landing which bears his name, has acquired Hoppey's Restaurant on Wall Street.

Renovations Underway

Whalen said the Wall Street restaurant will be operated under the name of Gene Whalen Restaurant, and it will specialize in sea food. After renovations and changes in the establishment, which has been closed for several weeks, the restaurant will open in the near future with many added features.

Whalen told The Freeman that he plans to close his restaurant at Ulster Landing for the winter months, after the Wall Street restaurant is opened for business probably early in November. He said that the Ulster Landing establishment which has been a popular eating place for years, will be opened during winter months for special dinners and other events.

The Ulster Landing place will open for the summer months on April 1.

Active in Association

The restaurant owner plans rearrangement of tables and booths in the eatery, and many other features. A sea food bar will be a specialty, according to present plans.

Whalen has operated the Ulster Landing restaurant for 20 years, and he is widely recognized throughout the Hudson Valley as one of the leading restaurateurs in the area. He has held offices in the Ulster County Hotel and Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association and has been an active member of that group many years.

$64,480 Granted to Three Towns for Sewerage Needs

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller announced today that three Pure Water grants totalling $64,480 have been made by the State for studies of inter-municipal sewerage needs of three towns in Ulster County.

"These studies, which will take six to nine months to complete, are vital predecessors of the construction of sewage treatment facilities later on," Gov. Rockefeller said. "At present, none of the communities involved has waste treatment plants, and, as a result, their streams and ground waters are increasingly polluted."

$22,030 for Woodstock Area

A grant of $22,030 will pay for the sewerage study of the Woodstock area, including the hamlets of Rock City, Bearsville and part of Zena. The Sawkill Creek is directly affected by sewage disposal in the area. The six square mile zone has a population of 3,000.

A grant of $21,950 will cover the study of the eastern part of Marlboro township including the hamlets of Milton and Marlboro. The sewage from both drains eventually into the Hudson River. The area to be studied consists of 6.5 square miles with a population of 4,800.

A grant of $20,500 is to support a study of the central and eastern parts of the Town of Rosendale, including the hamlets of Tilton, Linnewater, Maple Hill, Creek Lakes, Bloomington, Whiteport, High Falls Park and Cottickill. Rondout Creek flows through the 19.5 square mile area populated by 4,500.

To Resume Hunt Near Lockport For Lost Girls

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)—State Police, working with bloodhounds, prepared to resume their search at dawn today for two girls they believe may be lost in a densely wooded area eight miles northeast of here.

The search began Monday night after the parents of the girls, Linda Starkweather, 16, and Carolyn Pries, 12, both of the nearby hamlet of Johnson Creek, reported them missing. It was suspended for the night.

The temperature dipped to the 40-degree level overnight, but troopers said both girls had been wearing coats when last seen.

Miss Starkweather lives at 19-48 Johnson Creek Road, Miss Pries' address is 1932 Johnson Creek Road.

Pros and Cons of Borrowing Is Decision for the Voters

By GERRY MCLAUGHLIN
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New

York voters will decide on Nov. 8 whether the state should borrow $200 million to expand development of campsites, marinas, picnic areas, golf courses and other public recreational facilities.

Gov. Rockefeller, with the assent of the Legislature, wants to buy more land for state parks and recreation and improve the land already purchased. The proposal calls for the job to be done within 10 years.

Changes in Constitution
The request for authorization to float $200 million in bonds is one of 12 questions placed before the people on the Nov. 8 election ballot. Except for the parks bond proposition, all of the proposals are for changes in the state Constitution.

Voters will be asked, among other things, to say:
—Whether the state should be authorized to raise from $50 million to $75 million the ceiling on the amount of bonds the state will guarantee for the State Job Development Authority.

Bonds Used Statewide

—Whether state-guaranteed bonds of the Job Development Authority may be used anywhere in the state. Such bonds now may be used only in parts of the state in which unemployment is a critical problem.

Whether the Legislature should be authorized to permit cities, towns and villages to shoulder a larger burden of debt for construction of public housing and urban renewal projects. Proposals to widen the state government's role in financing of public housing projects have been knocked down by the voters in recent years.

—Whether the state should be permitted to give or loan money to any organization for aid to the mentally ill or mentally retarded. While the constitution forbids such state help in principle, voters previously have approved exemptions to permit state support of the needy, the juvenile delinquents. Critics of the proposal say that the change would be unnecessary because the state already is providing substantial help for the mentally ill and mentally retarded.

Increase Pensions

—Whether the Legislature should be enabled to increase the pension of a widow of a retired member of the State Teachers Retirement System, or its subdivisions.

The proposal for new borrowing for state parks and recreation is advanced against a background of rising state population and an accompanying demand for more recreational facilities.

Rockefeller and his specialists on park and recreation matters say 400 million will be needed to meet the demands of the next decade. Local and federal funds would provide an amount matching what the governor wants New York to borrow — $200 million.

Parks Too Crowded

More than 42 million persons will have used the state parks by the end of the 1966-67 state fiscal year — next March 31. Rockefeller said in his annual message this year that the existing recreational facilities "already are far too crowded and new land and facilities are vital."

Under terms of the proposition, the $200 million in bonds would be made available as follows:

—$60 million for marine projects.
—$55 million for state park projects.
—$15 million for forest recreation projects.

Park Project Funds

—$25 million for municipal park projects in New York City.
—$25 million for municipal park projects outside of New York City.
—$20 million for historic site projects.

The bonds would be paid off with proceeds from fees and charges imposed for use of the facilities, proponents of the borrowing plan say.

Critics have expressed doubt, however, that such revenue could provide enough money to meet the bond debt. They contend that tax money may well be needed to help pay off the bonds.

Require More Spending

Opponents also argue that such a bond issue would require increased spending by local governments and consequent increases already in burdensome local taxes.

The Job Development Authority loans money at low-interest to local non-profit development corporations. The idea is to encourage the growth of industry and the creation of jobs. The loans are limited to an amount no higher than 30 per cent of the cost of lands and buildings involved in a project.

The governor, who fostered the Job Development Authority, reports that the agency will have used up all of its resources by early next year. He says the ceiling on state-guaranteed lands should be raised as a means of continuing industrial growth.

Hurt Credit Rating

Foes of the proposal contend it would produce an unwarranted increase in state debt at a time when the state's resources are needed for what they see as more pressing problems. On top of that, they hold that such an expansion could hurt the state's credit ratings and raise interest costs.

In addition, critics say, the authority still has plenty of authorized—but unused—power to borrow.

The proposed housing amendment also involves an increase in borrowing power.

Debt Not Over 2 PC

The Constitution now says a community may be authorized by the Legislature to borrow money for construction of public housing and urban-renewal projects. A community's debt for such purposes must not exceed two per cent of its assessed valuation.

Public housing proposals have been beaten consistently in recent years, mainly by Upstate voters. For example, in 1964, the people voted down a proposal that would have limited municipal debt for helping urban renewal. The ceiling proposed then was two per cent of full valuation, instead of assessed valuation, as is now proposed.

Advocates of a pension increase for teachers' widows base their argument on needs created by the rising cost of living. They note further that the Constitution makes similar exceptions for widows of policemen and firemen, if the locality so choose.

Tomorrow, Voting - residency Requirement.

Xerox Reveals Record Revenues, Income for Period

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Officials of Xerox Corp., a leading manufacturer of office copying equipment, say the company's quarterly operating revenues for the third quarter of this year were the highest in its history.

Total operating revenues for three months ended Sept. 30 reached $133,163,634, up more than $34 million, or 35 per cent, from the comparable period in 1965.

Net income for the quarter totaled $18,719,378, also a record and was equal to 88 cents for each of the 21,347,110 common shares outstanding. The figure was more than $3 million above last year's total, which was equal to 70 cents on the 21,088,829 shares then outstanding.

Net income for the three quarters was $58,401,043, up more than $15, or 37 per cent, from last year's total. The value per share was 2.74, compared with $2.02 last year.

Military Bill Ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson had on his desk today a $979,570,000 military construction bill that rests $135,377,000 below his original budget recommendation made last January.

The measure, sent to the White House by the Senate Monday, also is $63,544,000 below a revised recommendation the President made later.

Robbery Victims From Woodstock Explain Finances

An article in Saturday's Freeman regarding the robbery of an elderly Woodstock couple, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Berry, of $750 in cash and a pair of diamond rings, was found to be partially in error Monday.

Mrs. Berry told the Freeman, "$750 was stolen but this sum of money had been saved over a long period of time so that my husband and I could replace our 16-year old car. It was withdrawn from the banks just a few days before the robbery."

Referring to the article which stated that the Berrys, residents of Newburgh, owned property there and collected large sums of rent, Mrs. Berry said, "We do not own a bit of rental real estate and do not collect a bit of rent. We do not ever have any large sums of money to carry around with us."

Mrs. Berry said that the diamond rings had been in her family for years.

The investigation into the robbery continues with local law enforcement officials searching for a trio or possibly four men described by the Berrys as white in their 30's.

May Deduct Drought Losses in Some Cases

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service rules that property losses resulting from the severe drought in the Northeast in recent years may be deducted for income tax purposes in some cases.

In a ruling Monday, the IRS said taxpayers who suffered such loss from "an unusual and unprecedented drought occurring before Jan. 1, 1966, will be allowed to treat their losses as casualty losses."

The service said the burden of proof in each case will rest upon the taxpayer to substantiate that he suffered a loss.

Damage to ornamental trees and shrubbery the IRS warned, may be claimed only if the damage resulted in an actual decrease in the value of the entire property.

Democratic Hopes in Texas Hinge on Number of Voters

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Two million votes is the magic figure in the Texas race for the U.S. Senate.

"I think Mr. Waggoner Carr is in trouble if he doesn't get at least a two-million turnout," says Hank Brown, president of the Texas AFL-CIO which is backing neither Democrat Carr nor Republican John G. Tower, seeking re-election to the Senate seat once held by Lyndon B. Johnson.

"With 1.6 or 1.7 million voters, we've got it won," says a Republican campaign official. "With two million we've still got a good chance."

Light Vote Would Hurt

"There's no doubt a light vote would hurt the Democrats while the Republican candidate would be helped," says Gov. John B. Connally who has put his Democratic organization solidly behind Carr.

Carr also has an endorsement from President Johnson, and there have been unconfirmed reports that Johnson will campaign for him.

Both Tower and Carr are conservatives. Tower, 41, never mentions he is a Republican and stresses his cooperation with both parties in Washington. Carr, 48, claims he could be more effective as a Democratic senator working with a Democratic President, an all-Democratic House delegation from Texas, and a Democratic governor.

TEB Predicts Turnout

The Texas Election Bureau predicts a turnout of anywhere from 2 to 2.5 million of the 3.1 million registered voters. Only 1.25 million voted in the May Democratic primary. Republicans had no statewide contests.

The winning margin may lie with a loosely-organized ever-changing group usually called "the Texas liberals." This group consists generally of liberal Democrats led by U.S. Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, Brown's labor unions, and the Negro and Latin American minorities.

The liberals this year have merged their efforts to defeat Carr with the effort by Republicans and ultraconservative Democrats to re-elect Tower.

Optimistic Republicans get their victory forecast by adding the 600,000 GOP vote they have produced in recent general elections to 150,000 they say Tower automatically draws as an incumbent plus a possible 400,000 votes from defecting liberal Democrats.

In the past Democrats have cast large votes through heavy turnouts of Negro and Latin American minorities. This was the case in 1960 when John F. Kennedy carried Texas, which twice had voted for Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower.

But organized labor, which usually leads and directs these get-out-the-vote campaigns, is mostly silent this year.

"Our position is that neither one of them is worth our help," said Brown. "We are not going to spend a dime or a postage stamp on either one."

Javits in Strong Support of Fish

"There was nothing lukewarm about my endorsement of Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican candidate for the 28th Congressional District, as his Democratic opponent has said. I believe Ham Fish's election is in the best interest of his district as well as to maintain the two party system in our nation."

As a United States Senator, with all the work that entails, as campaign manager for Governor Rockefeller, as a candidate for the New York Constitutional Convention, I am far too busy to give pro forma endorsements to all Republican candidates.

I went to the 28th District to endorse strongly Ham Fish because I believe he is a man of great integrity who will represent his district by actively taking part in legislation in the best possible way.

To Protect Tobacco

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Two soil scientists at the University of Wisconsin say umbrellas over tobacco plants may be an answer to a possible cause of lung cancer.

Chester W. Francis and Gordon Chesters said Monday tests show that rain saturates leaves with two substances found in natural radioactive fallout—lead 210 and polonium 210.

They said polonium 210, vaporizes at the temperature of a burning cigarette and enters the lungs.

Although there is only "about one ounce of polonium 210 in every trillion tons of tobacco," Chesters said, "rain-exposed tobacco is at least 100 times more contaminated than rain-protected tobacco."

Tobacco industry spokesmen say there has been no scientific evidence that smoking causes cancer.

Scott Sees Many Swinging to GOP Over Price Spiral

ROME, N.Y. (AP)—There is just one way to describe the Johnson administration's handling of the public's money," says Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa. "It shrinks."

As a result, Scott predicted Monday, rising food prices will lead many citizens to vote for Republican congressional candidates in the November election.

Scott addressed a GOP gathering in support of Rep. Alexander Pirnie of Utica, who seeks re-election.

"One piece of paper, the cash register receipt which you get at the store," he said, "is going to have a profound influence on another piece of paper, the ballot, when Americans go to the polling places."

SOCIAL SECURITY BOOST?

The battle over the fundamental merits of the Social Security system has long since been fought and won. The American people have overwhelmingly signified their approval of this program. The questions asked about Social Security these days are: Who ought to be covered? How much should the benefits be?

The latter point is the one primarily dealt with in President Johnson's proposed changes. He plans to ask for a substantial increase in payments to all beneficiaries. Further, he proposes extending Medicare coverage to about a million disabled persons not yet eligible by reason of age. He also wants a bigger total income allowance for those who continue to work after reaching retirement age.

Doubtless political factors had some part in the decision to announce these proposals before the elections. Whether or not this is the case, having them at hand now provides welcome time for discussion. Several questions must be considered.

Not least among these is the overall cost of the suggested changes—about 2.2 billion dollars—at a time when the Vietnam war's drain on the economy is being felt more and more severely. Even swift congressional approval would not place the changes in effect until the end of 1967, true, and the war may be ended by then. But there is no guarantee of that, and as the war continues its costs will rise.

That is not the only consideration. A boost in the tax or in the amount of earnings taxed would be required to pay for some of the increased benefits. It is a debatable point whether a bigger bite of earnings can be justified for this purpose. Probably it is justifiable, when one considers the difficulty of existing on Social Security in inflationary times. But in many cases, these and other aspects of the President's proposals should be gone into fully before Congress makes any decision.

Johnson will ask the next session of Congress for a Social Security boost. And he thought it would be nice to let everyone know it before the elections.

DECISIONS FOR VOTERS

Eleven Constitutional Amendments and one proposition will adorn the ballot at the general election November 8. This wide assortment of questions will be for the voters of the state to weigh and decide. In the form of submission on the ballot, most of the amendments are so phrased as to be unintelligible. And this could be the very reason why so many voters in every election fail to express an opinion on these very important proposals.

The Freeman, which traditionally publishes as much information as possible on state-wide propositions, will again explain the proposals for the benefit of its readers and state its position.

Proposition No. 1 is the first question in the row of proposals at the top of the ballot up for decision. This proposal would permit the issuance of bonds amounting to 200 million for the development of lands for outdoor recreation including state and municipal parks, marine facilities, forest recreation areas and historic sites. The bonds would finance half the cost of a proposed 10-year $400 million program. The development program would be set up by the New York State Council of Parks.

The $200 million debt would be paid for from an outdoor recreation development account into which are placed charges made for the use of state parks and recreational facilities, taxes on gasoline used by boats and motorboat registration fees.

The voters of the state in 1960 and 1962 authorized $100 million for the purchase of land for parks, conservation and recreation.

There is need for outdoor recreational facilities in this region and in view of the fact that the Kingston area has been mentioned for projects when additional monies become available this proposal should benefit this area.

We believe that Proposition No. 1 is in the interest of the public and we recommend a "Yes" vote.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The "Sleeper" in the New York Campaign

The "sleeper" in the New York State political campaign is the referendum on Mayor John Lindsay's so-called "external" police review board. The two major party candidates, Governor Nelson Rockefeller of the Republicans and his Democratic challenger, Frank O'Connor, are nervous in their required support of the board with Rockefeller doing his level best to play it down as an issue without repudiating it. The Liberal Party candidate for governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., has, of course, to be for the board, which leaves the Conservative Party nominee, Dr. Paul L. Adams of the upstate Robert Wesleyan College, the sole man in the field who is vocally against the idea of letting civilians act as Monday-morning quarterbacks on the performance of individual policemen.

Just how this will affect the struggle between Rockefeller and O'Connor is a matter for much argument. If you believe in the efficacy of labels, it should hurt Rockefeller more than it hurts O'Connor. For Republican conservatives who are against supporters of the civilian review board have an alternative choice in the Conservative Party slate. On the other hand, the Democrats and the Liberals have no comparable, ideologically motivated choice, which, on the face of it, would make O'Connor and Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. right where they were before the review board referendum was placed on the ballot.

Appearances here, however, could be deceptive. For the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, which did so much to corral the signatures needed to get a November referendum vote on the review board idea, has thousands of supporters among good Democrats in the New York City area. This is the apostate liberal group that gave the conservative magazine publisher, William Buckley, such an unexpectedly big vote in the New York City mayoralty election last Fall. If its members desert Frank O'Connor on the police review issue they will assuredly vote for the Conservative's Dr. Adams and his running mate, Kieran O'Doherty, who, as candidate for Lieutenant Governor, is concentrating his extremely vocal efforts on his native bailiwick of New York City. Votes taken away from O'Connor in this way will help Rockefeller, just as some of the apostate Democratic vote for Buckley helped Lindsay against the Democrats' Abe Beame. Since the Conservatives want especially to hurt Rockefeller, this introduces an anomalous element into their campaign. But they want also to replace the Liberal Party in the Number Three slot on the ballot, and the police review board issue gives them an excellent chance to do just this.

The fact is that the idea of letting civilians second-guess individual policemen, who are sworn to do their duty impartially, was always a stupid idea. Nobody can work well with a special club over his head. The Negroes and Puerto Ricans of New York City are by no means one hundred percent for it; in fact, the highest school language newspaper in the New York metropolitan area, "El Tiempo," has come out against it. And, speaking in Philadelphia, no less a liberal than Vice President Hubert Humphrey recently attacked the concept of the review board before a group of police officials. To cap the liberal defection from Mayor Lindsay's pet idea, Walter Gellhorn, prominent Columbia University law professor who has always been an extreme civil libertarian, has objected to the sort of review board that turns any particular controversy over alleged brutality "into a dispute between a particular citizen and a particular policeman." Professor Gellhorn advocates a "broader approach," which amounts to supporting a suggestion offered by this column last Summer that a State "Ombudsman," set up on the Swedish model, be constituted to review any and all complaints about misgovernment, police department malfeasance or misfeasance included. Under such a system policemen would not feel they were being singled out for discriminatory treatment.

In Connecticut, Republican Lawrence J. DeNaven is running as a candidate for the State Senate from a district just outside the city of New Haven on an Ombudsman platform. Dr. DeNartiss, who teaches political science at small Albertus Magnus College, argues that the police would be more amenable to an Ombudsman than to a special review board. This idea is bound to grow as common sense conquers even those liberals who have been most doctrinaire in their response to the problems of present-day government.

Some Hard-Nose Facts About Vitamins You Take

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D., Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—What is vitamin P? Does it improve one's hearing?

A—Very little is known about vitamin P or rutin, probably because no proved deficiency of this vitamin has yet been observed. There is no evidence that it improves hearing. It appears to be closely related to vitamin C, the vitamin that prevents scurvy.

Q—Is rose hip tea of any value? Would its use over a long period have any bad effects?

A—Rose hips, the fleshy fruit of the rose, are a rich source of Vitamin C and are widely used for this purpose in northern countries where citrus fruits do not grow. Since this vitamin is quickly eliminated from the body, no vitamin poisoning results from taking more than the body's daily requirement.

A—A recent newspaper article on vitamins stated that vitamin E is taken daily for three months it will cause chronic cystic mastitis to disappear completely. Is this true? Elsewhere I have read that it is not essential in the human diet. Do you agree?

A—I know of no evidence that vitamin E will benefit cystic mastitis but it has been used with some success in the treatment of cystic fibrosis, a hereditary disease of children. There is no daily requirement of this vitamin in human beings.

Q—My eyes ache. Would vitamin A tablets help this condition?

A—Vitamin A is essential at all ages for good vision. It does not follow, however, that it would relieve pain in or near the eyes. Your eye doctor should determine the cause of the discomfort. Too much vitamin A can cause one form of vitamin poisoning.

Q—Is vitamin C good for back trouble? Do you recommend vitamin C pills for everyone?

A—There are many kinds of back trouble but vitamin C would not be likely to cure any of them. I don't recommend vitamin pills of any kind unless a person has a vitamin deficiency or must be on a diet so restricted that he cannot get the vitamins he needs in the food he eats.

Q—My doctor has prescribed nicotinic acid for me. Should it cause me to feel flushed? What foods are a good source of this vitamin?

A—This vitamin dilates the blood vessels of the skin and may thus cause flushing. It is found abundantly in lean meats, dried yeast and whole grain cereals.

TAY NINH, Viet Nam—(NEA)—Within three hours after your B-52s take off for a raid, we know at our (Communist military) headquarters here.

"It is enough time for us to prepare ourselves."

The man had been an officer in the top Communist military headquarters for South Viet Nam, located near here under the command of Lt. Gen. Tran Nam Trung. The man this reporter was talking to had been responsible for a section of 70 officers and men at that headquarters.

(In the Delta region of South Viet Nam, Viet Cong reported they had two hours advance warning of B-52 raids. This gave them enough time to scatter, they said.)

The ex-officer said: "We receive the information by radio. We have a net of powerful stations. So there is no problem getting the information through."

"One of our most powerful stations is just outside Saigon. Our (Communist) military organization in Saigon is headed by a brigadier general. His deputy is a colonel. He has a staff of majors, captains and other officers, enlisted men and civilians."

"The general and the colonel keep changing their locations so they will not be caught. The other officers and men are in a headquarters."

"One of the major objectives of the Saigon headquarters is to infiltrate the Viet Nam military. I don't know all the methods."

but one is to find promising young men who cannot afford to go to higher school and university. We then pay for their education. In return they gather information for us when they become military officers.

"I know, for example, that one objective is to acquire officers loyal to us who are stationed at Tan Son Nhut airbase. I don't know how successful we have been."

"This infiltration is done by the military intelligence net. We have another net in Saigon responsible for buying medical supplies. This net includes many ordinary people. They are members of a secret organization."

"They go individually to shops and buy small amounts of medicine. This is collected at a central point and shipped by river or canal to our headquarters at Tay Ninh."

"There may have been other methods, too, for securing medicines from Saigon. We receive much medicine, pharmaceuticals and vitamins from Saigon one way or another. Some also come from Cambodia."

"Many things come in from Saigon—tea, dried fish, salt, as well as medicines."

"Another Saigon net is responsible for terrorism. Still another net handles military activities. It would be charged, for example, with organizing and executing an attack on the airplanes at Tan Son Nhut airbase."

"A political net is responsible for printing and circulating propaganda leaflets for the Saigon-Cholon-Gia Dinh area."

It is this underground structure which is so difficult to weed out even when Vietnamese or U.S. troops secure a city, village or province. No certain method for this weeding out has been developed to date, even in Saigon.

Soviets Traditionally Slow In Altering Foreign Policy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — It shouldn't have been a surprise to see comments of Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Communist party leader in Moscow, that President Johnson is suffering from a "strange and persistent delusion" if he thinks Soviet-American relations can be improved while the United States continues its "aggression" in Vietnam. Nor should the Brezhnev statement be regarded as discouraging.

For unless one is familiar with the history of the tactics and strategies of the Communists in what they say to the outside world, the remarks made by Brezhnev do seem to present a hopeless negative. But anyone who thinks an American president can butter up a Soviet foreign minister in a White House conference and expect a change the next day doesn't realize how long it takes and what has to be done before a Communist position on important questions is modified.

The process is slow-moving and requires lots of consultations and, in this instance, more information on the reaction of the Red Chinese and the North Vietnamese. Certainly no Moscow leader would think of announcing a change in policy on Viet Nam until all the cliques on the Communist side had been consulted to determine whether the main course should be altered.

Unquestionably the Soviet Government would like to improve its relations with the United States. The Russians would be gratified if the American Government should let down the bars and start lending money and supplying to the Eastern Bloc of Communist countries in Europe the products they would like to buy. It would, therefore, be a mistake for the United States to make any such concessions until the Communists demonstrate their willingness to become friends.

There are many ways by which they can do this. The propaganda stunt in Moscow over the week-end was not one of them. Indeed, Mr. Gomułka, the Polish Communist leader, while at the Kremlin the same day, echoed Brezhnev's outburst against the American president. Then, 24 hours later a formal communique on behalf of Russia and Poland was issued demanding that the United States unconditionally stop bombing.

The Soviets are afraid to show the slightest sign of yielding to the United States. They are worried by the hostility of Peiping. Until Russia can get a clearer idea of Red China's mood, there is little likelihood that Moscow will make any real change in its attitude toward the United States. President Johnson was perhaps rightly advised to make the attempt but shouldn't be disappointed that it hasn't yet borne fruit.

Meanwhile, so far as the Soviet Government is concerned, it must maintain, outwardly at least, an adherence to the "party line," which is that the United States is the "aggressor." The question of whether peace negotiations should begin if the bombing is stopped by the United States is, according to Communist tactics, not something for the Soviet Government to decide. If Hanoi should make up its mind to have a peace conference, the Soviets would still harp on the need for punishing the "aggressor," but they would await the outcome of the talks before publicly committing themselves to any change in their position.

What, then, is the American policy likely to be in the interim? The administration is well aware that the Communists don't believe this country will continue the war because it is growing more and more costly. Officials here, on the other hand, think that the Communists in Asia — particularly in Hanoi — will not be able to continue their present adamant position against early peace negotiations if this country adopts a more resolute course in Viet Nam. So the next step is not necessarily less peace talk but an intensification of the military effort for at least six months. The hope is that, once it is proved the United States will not curtail its combat operations until the other side does likewise, there will be an agonizing reappraisal in Hanoi, in Peiping and in Moscow.

It is more realistic, therefore, to say that Brezhnev, by his latest comments, has not stopped peace talks but has only suspended them temporarily. Meanwhile, America will strive to convince the Communists that the lives lost and the billions spent to liberate South Viet Nam from a true aggressor must not prove to have been in vain.

Declares Wilson Advances Cause Of State Workers

Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson, Ulster County Republican, is again demonstrating his personal desires in advancing the cause of employees of the State of New York.

Working closely with the Executive Secretary of the N.Y.S. Correction Officers Association,

Correction Officer John J. Martin of the Association's Legislative chairman, Correction Officer Arthur J. Steinhof, Assemblyman Wilson is introducing legislation in behalf of the membership that will provide for the state to assume the burden of the entire payment for their health and hospitalization program. Payments are now divided between the employer and employee.

Assemblyman Wilson pioneered this legislation last year but neither the legislators nor the administration were prepared for serious consideration. This year there is increasing support for this type legislation known as "fringe benefits." Both Mr. Wilson and the association do not consider this a fringe benefit, an entirely misleading reference. The benefit will be one well deserved because of the hazardous occupation involved. Further, many officers continue contributing into the plan as they have for many years and find themselves in a position where they are not even eligible for state medical aid.

Their families have grown leaving them with insufficient dependents or their pay barely exceeds the state eligibility requirements.

Not only the N.Y.S. Correction Officer but other state employees are sorely in need of remedial legislation to overcome this apportionment. Assemblyman Wilson and the association have a very deep concern over this issue. They recognize that the federal government is expending huge sums for poverty, welfare, free health plans, jobs, training and education and that such funds for these programs are paid in part by the correction officers' tax deductions. The type remedial legislation being submitted by Mr. Wilson will help balance the scales of economic justice, by providing some relief for those so deserving.

Respectfully
JOHN J. MARTIN
Executive Secretary

South Squeezes for Security

By Oswald & James Jacoby

A good rubber bridge player concentrates on his contract but he does not despise overtricks. A good duplicate player goes after overtricks all the time but does not despise making his contract.

There is one great advantage to the duplicate technique. The duplicate player who always goes after as many tricks as possible is likely to be a good rubber bridge player because he will make more contracts than the man who plays carelessly.

Here is a hand from a duplicate game which illustrates overtrick technique. After the ten of spades opening South can count 10 top tricks. He sees an easy 11th if he can get a 3-3 diamond break.

You can see that no suits are going to break yet there is an expert line of play to produce an 11th trick that does not jeopardize anything at all.

South takes East's queen of spades with his king and leads a low spade to dummy's ace. For all he knows the spade suit is going to break three-three. East shows out on the second spade and throws away a club. South decides that East is showing five clubs. In this case only East can stop clubs. If East has four diamonds in addition to his five clubs South sees a way to develop a squeeze against him.

At trick three South plays a low heart from both hands. West wins the trick and leads anything back he wishes. Suppose he selects another spade. South lets him hold that trick. East discards anything he chooses. So far East is under no pressure. West leads another spade. South throws a club from dummy. Then South cashes the ace and king of hearts and East is squeezed. He can't hold onto four diamonds and three clubs because he only has six cards left in his hand.

Report Syracuse Youth Fair; Six Days in Woods

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Peter Gade, 17, who was lost in the Adirondacks for six days, was reported in fair condition today, suffering from malnutrition and exposure.

Officials at Community General Hospital said Gade had not eaten since he became lost last Tuesday while hunting with a bow and arrows south of Raquette Lake in the rugged central Adirondacks.

The young man was found by searchers Monday. They said he was "Hungry tired but unhurt."

He was flown to the hospital in his home city by amphibious aircraft shortly after he was pulled aboard a hovering helicopter that was unable to land in the thick forests.

When found, Gade was about four miles from where he had entered the woods and was in an area that previously had been searched.

Gade told State Police he built a shelter and a bed of pine boughs when he realized he was lost and did not travel any further. His matches were wet, he said, and his raincoat became ripped.

Gade managed to call out when he heard voices Monday from some of the 300 searchers combining the 12 - square - mile

When they yelled for him to stay where he was, he shouted:

"My God, don't leave me!"

He later told his 20 - man rescue party that all he could think of was that he wanted "to be home."

Gade ate an apple and smoked a cigarette shortly after he was found but was unable to walk, searchers said, because of hunger and exhaustion.

Picket Allen Speech

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) —

Several members of a parents' group opposed to a plan devised by the state education commissioner to speed integration of the Buffalo public schools, picketed the hotel in which he was speaking Monday night.

The pickets, members of the Citizens for Neighborhood

Schools, marched with signs denouncing Commissioner James E. Allen, who was addressing a meeting of the State Congress of Parents and Teachers. The orderly demonstration lasted about 15 minutes.

SAUGERTIES NEW'S

Set Open House For October 23

The October meeting of Saugerties Council Columbiettes was attended by approximately 30 members, not nearly the hoped for number, but a few long-absent members did attend and it is hoped they return often.

The month of October is an exceptionally active one. On Oct. 14, 15 and 16, the bazaar kept everyone connected with it quite busy. Sunday, Oct. 23, is the evening of the Knights and Columbiettes Open House to launch a membership drive. This would be highly successful if each present member could bring one prospective member. All are welcome at 7:30 p. m. The magic phrase refreshments will served, should also have some drawing power. October 30, the Columbiettes will hold the annual Communion Breakfast—beginning with 9 a. m. Mass at St. Mary's Church, Cementon, followed by breakfast at the Sportsmen's Lodge, also Cementon. There is no cost to members, who may bring guests (not necessarily Catholic) at a small charge. A very interesting speaker has been promised and a surprise announcement is to be made at that time. If members are curious enough to find out what it might be, call Eleanor Naccarato for reservations, as soon as possible.

Jeanette Curry of the local Council, has been appointed District Deputy. Official word has been received of the honor, both to her and this Council.

At the November meeting, which will be Nov. 9, the scheduled speaker is Attorney Michael Catalinotto, whose subject "The Importance of Making a Will," may well prove to open eyes to the complications that often arise at a crucial time in many lives.

The meeting this month ended with the showing of an interesting film on "Rescue Breathing" and many members learned a few things which may someday be very important. Tentative plans for a Family Communion and Breakfast Nov. 20 are being discussed with time and place to be announced. But members should mark that day on their calendars and postpone other plans for a later date.

Medicare Topic At Monday Club

The regular meeting of the Monday Club was held at the home of Mrs. George Hildebrandt, Meadow Court, Saugerties, on Oct. 17 with 22 members and two guests present.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Dorrance Baker. The program, Medicare and Medicaid, was presented by Mrs. Milton Armstrong. Mrs. Armstrong reported that 91 per cent of all the country's 7,374 general hospitals are participating in the program and 17.3 million of the 19 million of the senior citizens of the nation elected to pay $3 a month for medical insurance. The chief complaint seems to be centered on the forms required to be filled out, causing a need for additional clerks in the hospital, she said. The program seems to be operating with fewer problems than had been expected.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. John Lowther in Fishcreek.

Tour Fire Station

The primary group of the ungraded class of Saugerties Main Street School visited the local fire station last week. August Fellows, fire chief, showed the children many interesting things including smoke masks and an oxygen tank. The children were allowed to sit in the fire trucks, which they enjoyed, and all were interested in the fire trucks and the equipment. The trip was climaxed by the children receiving fire hats and fire marshal badges. The trip was an interesting and worthwhile experience.

The class extends its appreciation to Mr. Fellows and his helpers for their cooperation in this project.

Morse School Drills

To celebrate National Fire Prevention Week, the six kindergarten classes at the Grant D. Morse School had an opportunity to examine the Centerville fire truck last week.

Also, the entire student body had two practice drills. One was with all exits open; the other was with an exit blocked. Firemen on hand to observe the drills and show the truck were Scotty Myer, Chief; Ike Mower, Assistant Chief, and Leonard Sinnott.

Firemen Canvass For MD Saturday

Many Saugerties residents know the importance of the current Muscular Dystrophy fund drive through personal acquaintance with the stories of two local families. They have admired the courage of the John Collins family, of Route 2, Saugerties, whose son, John Jr., died of muscular dystrophy this past summer and whose other son Gary, is confined to a wheelchair because of the disease. Much admired, also, is 17-year-old Cindy Kolb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kolb, of 20 Robinson Street, Saugerties, who expects to be graduated from Saugerties High School next June although she, too, spends her life in a wheelchair.

Because of these cases so close to home and the 12 other cases involving children in this area, the people of Saugerties are being asked to help in raising $7,500 to fight MD. The Ulster County Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy is not a member of the Community Chest and must pay its own bills, which are steadily going up. Just this week, another case of MD was reported in the area, involving a five-year-old boy.

Those unpaid volunteers who are working for this worthy cause and those who will want to give will have an opportunity Saturday when the fire companies of Saugerties turn out in full force to conduct a house-to-house canvass. Most local firemen know Cary Collins and Cindy Kolb and they knew John Collins Jr. and were eager to volunteer their services for Saturday.

They urge all local residents to give generously to help keep their own children from becoming MD victims. The committee points out that MD runs in families and that Mrs. Collins' sister is also the mother of an MD child.

Anyone who is not contacted personally in the canvass by fire-

Freshmen Slate Election Plans; To Use Machines

A meeting of the Saugerties Junior High School freshman class was held Oct. 6 in the school cafeteria. The principal, Robert Moser, the class advisor, Morris Salkind, and homeroom representatives, Richard Mayone, David Carnright, Jacqueline Tynan, Thomas Keefe, Christopher Markunas and Lawrence Unthank spoke to the group of over 150.

Plans for the upcoming elections were discussed. To make the election as democratic as possible, all students who wish to hold an office must have the required number of 33 signatures on nominating petitions, a quota set by the homeroom committee. The class hopes to be able to have the experience of using the voting machines at election time as was done last year. Two faculty members of the Social Studies Department, Richard Smith and Edward Ehrmann, will direct all freshmen in actual use of the voting machines on the day of election. The election plans of this year's freshmen include following the state's plans for carrying on an election. The stress is on as close an approximation to New York State's method of carrying out an election as possible.

No Dry Run

HONOLULU (AP) — President Johnson proved himself the master of the quick recovery from a sticky situation Monday.

Waving to a large crowd which swirled around his along Honolulu's Nimitz Highway, the President inadvertently placed his outburst hand on the extra-damp chin of an infant with a rubber pacifier in its mouth.

The baby was being held aloft by its mother. The President slid his hand down the baby's arm and quickly dried it on the child's diaper.

Frank Miller, Hurley Lions president, also is shown. The district attorney spoke on Child Molestation and how the U. S. Supreme Court ruling has affected the laws and the prosecution of such cases. Columbia Records 15th Road Death

Columbia County listed its 15th highway fatality Monday when George L. Herran, 38, of Michael Road, East Greenbush, was killed when his car crashed headon with a flat bed tractor-trailer on Route 9H in the town of Claverack. The driver of the truck Lawrence Adriance of Main Street, Catskill, was uninjured.

According to Claverack state police the Herran vehicle was headed south on Route 9H making a left curve when the truck turned off Hildebrandt Road into 9H. The East Greenbush man was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Thomas Cacioppi of Claverack. Coroner Donald Tracy said death was due to brain hemorrhage due to multiple fractures of the skull.

Support Order Charge

William Faulkner, 48, of 11 Broadway was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Gerald Miller on Monday charged with violation of a support order. He was released in his own recognizance for appearance on Oct. 21 in Family Court.

Msgr. Head Is New Director of Charities Fund

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, today announced the appointment of the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward D. Head as executive director of the Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York.

Msgr. Head, who is 47, was born in White Plains, and attended Cathedral College and St. Joseph's Seminary, Yonkers. He was ordained to the priesthood by Cardinal Spellman in St. Patrick's Cathedral Jan. 27, 1945.

He was elevated to the rank of papal chamberlain with the title of Very Rev. Monsignor by Pope John XXIII in July, 1962 and to the rank of domestic prelate with the title of Right Rev. Monsignor by Pope Paul VI in May, 1966.

Third Ward Plans Candidates Night

Alderman John J. Naccarato of the Third Ward, announced today that plans are complete for a Republican "Candidates Night" to be held Thursday at 8 p. m. at P. J.'s Restaurant, 46 Grand Street.

Naccarato said all voters of Kingston are welcome to attend, meet the candidates and enjoy free refreshments. Among Republican office seekers expected to be on hand are candidates for U. S. Congress, New York State Senate and Assembly and Ulster County Clerk.

Adage Tired Pun To Local Trucker

The time worn admonition about crying over spilled milk did nothing to console a New Paltz truck driver Monday night, according to Sergeant Edward Whalen of the Highland state police barracks.

The sergeant said Anthony Zunno, 33, of 19 South Oakwood Terrace, New Paltz, was treated and released from Vassar Hospital Poughkeepsie, after his truck went out of control on a curve on Route 9W, struck the curbing and overturned. The vehicle came to rest in the south-bound lane.

Troopers C. F. Czaplinski and G. W. Zappolo reported the accident occurred at 11:05 p. m. in the Town of Lloyd.

Police said much of the truck's contents spilled onto the highway. The truck was loaded with milk.

Sees Time Marching Swiftly Since Independence of India

EDITOR'S NOTE — The writer of this analysis has been chief of The Associated Press bureau in India for three years. Now leaving to assume another assignment, he was asked to assay the last few years' developments and India's outlook.

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — In once-timeless India, time is marching swiftly today. Seldom in 19 years of independence has India been in such turmoil with its basic democratic institutions and its dream of progress threatened.

In the heady years after independence in 1947, there seemed to be few doubts India was entering a new era.

A turning point came three years ago as Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru slumped into physical and mental exhaustion caused by too many burdens carried too long.

India slumped too.

Massive development plans, once a model for underdeveloped nations trying to leave the ox cart age, became divorced from economic realities. New Delhi talked of steel mills while Indians hungered.

With his death May 27, 1964, it became apparent the essential question was: "After Nehru what?"

Lal Bahadur Shastri, who succeeded Nehru, found to his despair, riots, civil disobedience, food shortages and a dangerous weakening of India's federated structure.

Ambitious state and regional politicians began defying New Delhi. Food-surplus states refused to share with hungry neighbors. Language riots erupted, regional jealousies came to the surface, states began quarreling over boundaries, separate groups began demanding separate states.

All this revealed a centrifugal force spinning power away from the central government and into the hands of men who might use it for something less than national good.

This force today threatens Nehru's dream of one powerful viable nation of 500 million.

Shastri, to the surprise of many, flowered as a leader during India's war with Pakistan in September 1965. His dedication to the basic problems of feeding and housing his people impressed foreign experts.

India, many felt, was getting its feet on the ground for the first time since independence. But last Jan. 11, while trying to fashion peace with Pakistan at a summit conference in Tashkent, U.S.S.R., Shastri died.

It was a stunning blow.

India's political leadership — the syndicate, it is called — turned to Nehru's daughter, Indira Gandhi. The 48-year-old widow's government experience was limited to watching her father in action plus one brief term as information minister.

How has she done?

A leading Indian cartoonist sums up his feelings by portraying Mrs. Gandhi and her Cabinet fleeing along a road pursued by a howling mob demanding food, lower prices and a break in life.

"I am sure the country is behind us," Mrs. Gandhi rasps. The cartoon touches a widespread suspicion: In three years, the leaders who once led are being pushed and chased.

Mobs break down law and order in vast areas for long periods. Parliament and state legislatures are hamstrung by a canny leftist opposition. Students have entered the area, rioting, clashing with police, destroy classrooms — becoming ever bolder.

The government responds employing emergency legislation passed to defend India against Communist Chinese infiltration.

A continual political uproar, disclosing a reservoir of heretofore hidden discontent, compounds India's economic miseries.

Strikes, inefficiency, corruption — all flourish. Floods and drought strike other blows.

India's national income in 1965-66 dropped 3.7 per cent. Agricultural production was off 15.7 per cent, official figures show. The population increases 12 million annually — a statistic that means the economy must run fast just to stay in place.

Once India could draw on a seemingly inexhaustible fund of foreign aid. The United States alone has contributed more than $7 billion to India's development; American wheat today feeds millions.

But the United States has no huge grain surplus left. There is "aid weariness" in America and elsewhere. India nevertheless needs massive continued aid just to pay off its debts.

Can India lick these problems within the framework of a democratic society?

Three years ago, many diplomats and aid experts said huge doses of foreign aid could help a democratic India reach the economic "takeoff stage."

Today, some talk no longer of a takeoff. They say the most important problem is staving off leftist-inspired chaos and a subsequent swing to authoritarianism.

Striking Split With 'Activism'

High Court Picking Fights Very Carefully This Year

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court is picking its fights very carefully this year.

The story of the first two "decision Mondays" of the new term is a decided disinclination to do battle on new frontiers. This passivity is especially striking in view of the Warren court's 13-year history of "activism."

Some Exceptions
There have been some notable exceptions. Among them: agreement to examine jury selection in the South and to decide whether city officials may inspect private property without search warrants.

Also, some important pleas have not been acted on yet. For instance: a Maryland appeal asking that the stamp of constitutionality be put on state aid for construction at church-related colleges.

But, in the main, the court's response to calls for review in significant and controversial areas of the legal battleground has been a terse "no."

The net effect is to leave lower court decisions standing. Also, and perhaps more important, because the justices did not give their reasons, to leave lower courts somewhat in the dark.

Two cases in point. Monday's refusals to rule on chronic alcoholism and on whether the right to counsel applies in misdemeanor trials.

Two of the 11 U.S. Circuit Courts have explicitly held that chronic alcoholics may not be criminally punished for public drunkenness alone. In the other circuits the legal pattern is mixed, with procedures sometimes varying from city to city and from town to town.

Takes Votes of Four
But only Justices Abe Fortas and William O. Douglas wanted to step in — and it takes the votes of four justices to hear a case.

In March 1963, the high court revolutionized state trial procedures by declaring that "any person haled into court, who is too poor to hire a lawyer, cannot be assured a fair trial unless counsel is provided for him."

But does this and follow-up decisions mean that in all state trials — for misdemeanors as well as felonies — defendants must be supplied with lawyers?

In an Arkansas case the State Supreme Court held the ruling does not apply in misdemeanor trials. The U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans has held that it does.

But here, too, only two justices — Potter Stewart and Hugo L. Black — wanted to grant review.

Presumably, the conflict and confusion will continue. Other controversies the court has steered clear of include: an attack on the Electoral College system of choosing U.S. presidents; the California Supreme Court's reversal of a voter-applied ban on pay television for homes; the power of state legislatures to keep assertedly obscene books from teenagers.

In some instances, the court may come back another day and find conditions ripe for a declaration from the highest court in the land. But, at the moment, it's hands off.

Both Candidates Scorn Underdog Role in Campaign

By JON KAPSTEIN
Associated Press Writer

Democrat Frank D. O'Connor and Republican Gov. Rockefeller both scorned the role of underdog today as each moved into friendly territory, with O'Connor in New York City and Rockefeller in Upstate.

As the state's gubernatorial candidates churned the political soil for voter support:

O'Connor scheduled a news conference today on New York Central Railroad tracks in Harlem and a handshaking tour of Brooklyn.

Rockefeller reiterated the benefits of his anti-pollution program in remarks prepared for a Rochester gathering at the start of a major Upstate tour.

At the same time, Liberal party candidate Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. said polls predict he will gain a third of the Upstate vote.

Conservative Rockefeller, a state employee for political purposes.

The Republican governor, running for his third term, counted both gains and losses Monday.

New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay said he was "too busy" to campaign for the governor, while at the same time, The New York Daily News, with the nation's largest circulation, endorsed Rockefeller as the "preferred" candidate.

Meanwhile, GOP strategists eyed the one - million member New York City Central Labor Council, which takes up the question Thursday of whether to endorse Rockefeller.

Expect Cuba Will Repeat Statement Of Policy in U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Cuba's Communist government was expected to denounce U.S. military movements from Guantanamo to Viet Nam today in its annual policy statement before the U.N. General Assembly.

Vietnam Foreign Minister Raul Roa was to outline Prime Minister Fidel Castro's aims and policies. The Cuban declaration usually boils down to a blast against the United States as the foe of freedom in Latin America and in other underdeveloped areas.

Favorite Target

The U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay has been a favorite target of the Cubans.

Roa was expected to press again for the seating of Communist China in the United Nations despite charges from Peking that Cuba is siding with the Soviet Union in the ideological dispute between the two Communist powers.

The United States came under sharp attack from Cambodia Monday in the assembly policy debate. Ambassador Huot Sambath charged that no colonial conquest of the past century "has been as ferocious as the invasion of South Viet Nam by the United States."

He said the peace plan presented before the assembly by U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg could not "make us forget the military brutality now going on in Viet Nam."

A charge of Zionism was hurled at Goldberg Monday in the Security Council debate on the Israeli-Syrian border dispute.

Syrian Ambassador George Tomeh said Goldberg had acknowledged in a speech in 1965 that he was a spiritual Zionist.

"When, from this spiritual Zionism, we carry over to support the state of Israel, this is no longer spiritual Zionism," Tomeh declared. "This is political Zionism and the difference is very great."

Goldberg said that Tomeh should have distinguished between speeches he made before he was appointed ambassador to the United Nations in July 1965 and statements he now made as a U.S. representative in the world organization.

Two Killed on Monday In Gunpowder Blast

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—Two men were killed Monday when 7,000 pounds of gunpowder exploded inside a truck trailer, sending flaming debris over a square-block area and destroying three buildings.

The dead were Murlie Olive, 53, owner of Murlie's Bait Shop, located two blocks downtown Alton, and Harry Braxa, about 40, of De Soto, Kan., an employee of Plushaw Ammunition Co. of Kansas City.

The shop, which sells ammunition to hunters, and two adjacent homes in the area were set afire.

The driver of the truck, Leonard Summers, 34, of Kansas City, suffered minor burns.

Officers said the blast occurred as Summers and the two victims were unloading part of the explosive cargo. Sixty firemen battled the resulting blaze for nearly an hour.

Saugerties Board Settles $2,463 Claim on Village

By REX THOMAS

SELMA, Ala. (AP)—A judge's decision on the admissibility of ballots in a voting recount knocked Sheriff James G. Clark out of renomination in the Democratic primary last May.

In a curious twist, Clark now is relying on that decision to help re-elect him on Nov. 8.

Clark is running as a write-in candidate against Democratic nominee Wilson Baker in next month's general election. And he's using the judge's own words to justify a campaign gimmick aimed at getting more votes.

Once again Dallas County voters must choose between a sheriff who is a national symbol of segregationist resistance and a one-time Selma police official who challenged Clark's policy of mass arrests during the civil rights turmoil last year.

Thousands of tiny gummed stickers labeled "James G. (Jim) Clark for Sheriff" are being distributed throughout the county in the hope that voters might not take the trouble to write in the sheriff's name while pasting the stickers on the ballots.

That's where the decision handed down last May 24 by U.S. District Court Judge Daniel H. Thomas comes into the picture.

State law governing write-in votes in a general election says the voter can "write in" on a blank column the name of anyone who isn't on the ballot. An attorney's advisory opinion issued in 1954 said the voter must personally write the candidate's name on the ballot.

Clark says his lawyers have told him that Judge Thomas' decision prohibits throwing out a ballot on a technicality.

Ironically, it was the sheriff who sought to keep 1,700 ballots from being counted in the Democratic primary last May 3 on the grounds that six ballot boxes had been left unwatched and that there was evidence of irregularities. The ballots came mostly from Negro sections of Selma.

All but about 300 of the 1,700 votes were for Baker, enough to give him the Democratic nomination. But the county Democratic Executive Committee ordered the disputed votes thrown out, leaving Baker shy of a majority in a four-man race and facing a runoff with Clark.

The Fair Street Dutch Reformed Church.

At that time, in the summer of 1957, the 12 members of Troop 4, Scouts of America, took a field trip to view Perrine's Bridge. Their leader at the time, Elmer Carney of 10 Alcazar Avenue, advised them to take a good look at the rotting, run down bridge because it might be the last time they'd ever see it.

Move to Save Bridge

The Scouts decided otherwise. A regular member of the troop at the time was Chester Barley a man in his early 80's who was affectionately called the young boy Scout in the troop. Barley told the boys colorful stories of the past glories of the bridge after which the youngsters decided to do something about saving the historic structure.

That night, a group of the Scouts, led by Peter Dingeldey, met at Carney's home and drew up a petition to save the bridge.

4,045 Sign Petition

The petition was first presented at the Ahavath Israel Ball at the Armory where many signatures were affixed to it. Dingeldey was a tireless worker on the project and when the petition was ultimately presented to Gov. Averill Harriman it had 4,045 signatures. This was Jan. 3, 1958 at which time the Governor was made a member of Troop 4.

The main opposition to the preserving of the bridge at its present site came from the Wallkill Valley Flood Control Commission and its chairman, Norman Kellar. Kellar insisted he had no argument with the Boy Scouts and that he was not against the preserving of the bridge but that it was his contention that the bridge caused a definite flood hazard to the Wallkill Valley. Kellar noted that no one from the Wallkill Valley had signed the petition. The main problem seemed to be that the bridge was built across a narrow part of the Wallkill with abutments extending 60 feet into the creek. During high water this caused a backing up of water over the banks of the creek.

Remain in Area

The present Citizens Committee to save Perrine's Bridge has no objections to the moving of the bridge but would like to have it stay in the immediate area; that is, the Towns of either Rosendale or Esopus.

The plan is to raise $15,000 through public contributions. Each contributor would receive a small wooden plank as a memento. When and if the $15,000 is raised locally the Committee would then appeal to the State for $30,000 and if that is granted, then a request for $60,000 would be forwarded to Washington.

Plan State Park

The total of $120,000 would be used for setting up a state park around the reconstructed Perrine's Bridge.

The Citizens' Committee includes Supervisors Mabie and DeFelice; John N. Novi of High Falls; Ralph Whittaker of Morgan Hill; John Grady of Rifton; Phillip Stokes of Rifton; Anna Devine a Rifton school teacher and many others.

Persons interested in the preservation of Perrine's Bridge are advised to write to The Perrine's Bridge Committee, 10 Alcazar Avenue.

Orders Strike End

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A U.S. District Judge Carl A. Weinman issued a temporary injunction today ordering an end to a strike of about 6,000 General Electric Co. employees at a jet engine plant near Cincinnati.

stores. Business was slow Monday, but spokesmen for the stores said the sales differed little from a normal Monday.

But the Millers chain took a double page newspaper advertisement listing price cuts on canned goods, frozen foods and cleaning supplies. Most of the products bore brand names.

Mayonnaise was down 6 cents, detergent 2 cents, baked beans 4 cents, frozen orange juice 4 cents and powdered milk 14 cents.

A group of independent markets whose management had earlier announced a 10 per cent price cut, reported heavier business than usual for a Monday.

In Phoenix, Betty Weleha, information director of a housewives group said it would urge shoppers to restrict their shopping to stores that do not use stamps or other merchandising devices.

Score Stamp Plan

The organization, which has claimed success in bringing Arizona bread prices down, has argued that stamps and other similar merchandising techniques raise the cost of food by up to three per cent.

In the Portland price war, Albertson's market was giving away a loaf of bread, a pint of cottage cheese and a gallon of milk with each $4 purchase. A competing store offered virtually the same bargains.

Managers of the markets, who said the price cutting had been brought on by pressure from consumers and discount stores, watched as car pools from the city's low-income areas ferried buyers to the stores until late Monday night.

In Little Silver, N.J., a spokesman for HELPS — Housewives Expect Lower Prices — said the group had sent a letter to President Johnson, calling on him to lower "today's outrageous food prices."

The group has not taken action against food stores, however.

Verwoerd Assassin

Termed Schizophrenic

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—A government health officer testified today that he diagnosed Dimitrie Isafandas as a schizophrenic last June, three months before he assassinated Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd.

Dr. Ralph Kossew told the Supreme Court he examined Isafandas after he applied for a disability grant. But he said the 45-year-old mulatto was "not curable" and not sufficiently affected to be confined to a mental institution.

Kossew's testimony came on the second day of the trial of Isafandas, who stabbed Verwoerd Sept. 6.

The court is hearing testimony in support of the defense contention that Isafandas was mentally unsound at the time of the murder and therefore should be committed to a mental institution.

Until the court rules on this issue, Isafandas is not required to plead to the charge of murder filed against him.

The court was told Monday that Isafandas claimed that a "demon" tapeworm inside him caused him to assassinate Verwoerd.

Minimum Wage For Migrant in State Is Sought

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A state-imposed minimum wage for migrant workers has been advocated by an assemblyman and civil rights spokesmen and opposed by farmers including one who also is an assemblyman.

The debate came Monday during a one-day hearing called by the Joint Legislative Committee on Migrant Labor. About 35 persons were present but invited to attend did not appear.

Assemblyman Arthur Hardwick Jr., a Buffalo Democrat, said, "I am ashamed," he said, "I hope this doesn't represent the response of the entire state to the problem."

Norman Goldfarb, a leader of the Citizens Council on Human Rights of Buffalo, argued that agricultural and food-processing workers, who now have no minimum-wage protection, were the victims of "legal discrimination."

John Thomas, a farmer from nearby Eden, countered that in paying migrant workers 10 cents for each quart of strawberries picked, their average pay amounted to "much more than $1.25 an hour," the current state minimum for other workers.

Republican Assemblyman Donald Shoemaker of Webster, a committee member and apple grower, commented that farmers had unique problems in operating their business and that he had taken a loss on his farming investment last year.

Ralph S. Hozz of Angola, representing the State Grange, said that for New York farmers to remain competitive, any minimum wage legislation would have to come on the national level.

Hardwick said the minimum wage for farm workers would not necessarily have to be equal to that of others. He suggested that the migrants be given a guaranteed annual wage. He added:

"If this means subsidy, then let us subsidize in this direction."

Boy Still Alive After 2 Bullet Wounds in Head

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP)—An 11-year-old boy lost in the woods and wounded by a ricocheting bullet, shot himself in the temple because "I couldn't stand the pain no longer."

However, Billy Painter was found, rushed to a hospital for emergency surgery and early today was reported in fair condition.

Ray, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Painter of Decatur, had gone into the mountains of northwest Georgia with his father, a younger brother and an uncle for a weekend hunting trip. Painter said Billy left the camp early Sunday to shoot squirrels.

Painter said his son told rescuers "he shot at a squirrel and the bullet glanced and hit him above the right eye."

When he did return in a short while, the father said, a search was started. The search was enlarged by volunteers later but Billy wasn't found until early Monday, still conscious, in a wooded area about a mile from the camp site.

Painter said the boy told rescuers that he had given up hope of ever being found and that he had placed the .22 caliber rifle against his temple and fired because of the intense pain from the earlier wound above his right eye.

Lt. Ruled Insane, Acquitted in Slaying

BAYREUTH, Germany (AP)—A German court today acquitted Lt. Gerald M. Werner of St. Paul, Minn., of the bathtub slaying of his German girl friend, ruling that he was insane.

The acquittal had been expected after the prosecution last Friday recommended such action. The prosecutor said that psychiatric testimony had convinced him that the 29-year-old lieutenant was not responsible for his actions and should be committed to a mental institution.

Werner was arrested in March 1964, the day after police found dismembered sections of the girl's body strewn along the autobahn near Bayreuth. He was accused of strangling her in the bathtub of his bachelor "party villa" and then cutting up the body and scattering the pieces along the highway.

Reports Huge Loss to Vandals In Napanoch Area

A continuing rampage of vandalism in the Napanoch area is costing a Stone Ridge woman "an enormous loss," she told The Freeman today.

Mrs. Dory B. Trowbridge, widow of a Kerhonkson area contractor, said the vandalism involves her late husband's trucks and equipment, parked on a Kerhonkson property awaiting sale.

The latest incident, discovered yesterday, was the shooting of the windshield, headlights and gauges from a pickup truck.

Mrs. Trowbridge said batteries, parts and two jackhammers, valued at $500 each, have been stolen from the property since her husband's death in 1965.

"I just want the people to know," she told The Freeman, "and perhaps they can help me. I've told the police and they have tried very hard, but just haven't been able to catch these people yet."

Issue 35 Orders To Fight State Water Pollution

ALBANY — The enforcement phase of the New York State Pure Waters Program resulted in 35 orders being issued against polluters during the period of Sept. 16-30. Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, State Health Commissioner, said in his semi-monthly report.

Dr. Ingraham, administrator of the State program, has issued orders against 150 polluters in the State since this phase of the program began in September, 1965. These orders point out the seriousness of the pollution in each case and recommend means of correcting the problem.

As of Sept. 30, all major polluters in the State have either been scheduled for a hearing or have been notified a hearing is planned by the end of the year.

The semi-monthly report also announced two construction aid grants totaling $378,651 during the period of Sept. 16-30. This brings the total number of approvals to eight.

Hudson Gets Grant
The two latest approvals include Hudson, for a $331,551 grant to complete construction of a sewage treatment plant, and the Village of Newark, Wayne County, for a grant of $47,100 to improve pollution control facilities.

These grants are part of Governor Rockefeller's seven-point, six-year program to eliminate causes of water pollution in New York State.

During the Sept. 16-30 period, there were ten applications by local municipalities approved for operation and maintenance aid totaling $280,414. This program provides one-third of the cost to the local community for operating and maintaining existing sewage treatment plants which meet State standards. Since the program began in October, 1965, a total of $6,775,378 has been approved as State aid for local communities to cover this phase of the Pure Waters Program.

'Best Use' Basis
Dr. Ingraham said that in New York State water is classified on what engineers call a "best use" basis. Though a given body of water may be used for a number of purposes — drinking, fishing, boating and/or transportation — its condition must conform to a standard matching the use requiring the greatest purity.

The various components of the Pure Waters Program are directed to achieving this goal.

Bobby Planning S. Africa Return

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D - N.Y., plans a return trip to South Africa again next summer, despite criticism from South African authorities over a visit in June.

Kennedy said Monday he planned to visit universities and talk with students on an invitation from the South African Foundation. Other sources said elsewhere, however, that the invitation had been withdrawn.

Kennedy disclosed his plans after meeting privately with The Rt. Rev. Clarence E. Crowther, a U.S. citizen who is bishop of an Anglican diocese in South Africa.

Bishop Crowther, a critic of South Africa's policy of racial segregation, said Kennedy's tour had put that country's racial controversy in a global context and stimulated debate over government policy.

New York State's junior senator, Bishop Crowther said, has encouraged "responsible opposition" to apartheid, and the senator's tour had been "a shot in the arm to me."

Dorpan Soldier Killed

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — A 19-year-old soldier, who had 12 brothers and sisters here, is dead of a mine explosion in combat in South Viet Nam.

He was Pfc. James J. Pittman, whose death was reported Monday by the Defense Department.

Pittman, who was killed last Saturday, joined the Army early this year and was sent to the Southeast Asian nation in July with the 18th Infantry Regiment.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Odell Pittman.

RCA, Hertz Report Merger Agreement

NEW YORK (AP) — Officials of the Radio Corp. of America and the Hertz Corp. Monday announced agreement in principle for a merger of RCA and the car-rental firm.

Upon approval of the merger plan, Hertz would become a wholly owned subsidiary of RCA, according to the joint announcement of Elmer W. Engstrom, chairman of RCA's Executive Committee; Robert W. Sarnoff, president of RCA; and Leon C. Greenebaum, chairman of the Board of Directors of Hertz.

Hertz would continue to function as a separate enterprise, under its present board, management and personnel, the announcement said.

The merger agreement is subject to the approval of the boards of directors of both companies and final terms will be submitted to shareholders of both firms.

Lady with two stop signs wishes to meet gentleman with third.

Before you can work out what her little game is, you'll have to know something about ours.

We call it "Play Safe" and you can play it at any "Play Safe" Mobil station.

On each visit you'll be handed an envelope. (Even if you don't buy anything.) On the flap of the envelope you'll see two safety symbols. Say, two stop signs. Or two curve signs.

Inside the envelope, there'll be a third symbol. If it matches the two on the flap you win money. One, five, a hundred, five hundred, even a thousand dollars. (Three stop signs, for example, are worth a thousand.)

And since there's nothing in the rule book that says you can't team up with someone and split the prize money, that's what the lady's trying to do.

Five hundred dollars now, or the chance of a thousand later?

It's not an easy decision.

But it's a lovely thing to have to worry about.

Village Trustee Issues Statement About Rosendale

The following is a statement issued today by Joseph V. LaFera, trustee of the village of Rosendale.

"As a trustee of the Village of Rosendale I feel it is my responsibility to keep the taxpayers fully informed of events or issues which affect their well-being. The purpose of this letter is to publicly report on several significant events which occurred recently and appear to have been misinterpreted.

Police Coverage

"Rosendale is protected by two police forces: a village constabulary, and a town constabulary. From the standpoint of efficiency, it would be best to establish a single telephone contact for village and town residents needing police assistance. This single contact would have responsibility for altering the proper constabulary.

"A meeting was recently called, with the above goal in mind. Many citizens asked me if they could attend; since it was not defined as an open meeting, I replied that they could attend, but could not legally have a voice in the proceedings. One citizen arrived at a meeting, and the Board, by a vote of 5 to 2 agreed to let him stay if the above conditions were fulfilled. However, Supervisor Gerard DeFelice declared he would not continue with the taxpayer present, and adjourned the meeting.

Items 3 and 4

"At the present time, the village pays to the township through Items 3 and 4 of the budget, for machinery and road maintenance. There is no itemized accounting by the township for the maintenance or machinery; it is simply a bulk transfer of funds, and we in the village have no way of knowing the actual cost of the service. It would be fair to say we have been buying a pig in a poke and in order to determine a more equitable method of paying for road maintenance and machinery, perhaps save village money, I have attempted to discuss the matter with the town board. Unfortunately, the board has been unable to accommodate my request.

Proposed Road Hearing

"An informal hearing on the proposed road had been scheduled for Oct. 12. Many residents, including myself, were greatly inconvenienced by Mayor Arthur Mulligan's last minute, unpublished cancellation of it. As a trustee, I feel it my responsibility to apologize on behalf of the village board.

"Only an enlightened, active citizenry can overcome indifference, the greatest single enemy of good government."

Insurance Hiked To $15,000 on Savings Accounts

The first hike in the savings account protection ceiling since 1950 went into effect late Sunday night when President Johnson signed a bill insuring deposits for $15,000.

The $5,000 increase in coverage protects deposits in commercial banks which are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and those in Savings and Loan Associations which are covered by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp.

The new law, the President noted, will permit agencies "to move more rapidly and more effectively to correct unsafe or improper practices" in financial institutions.

In 1950 insurance went from $5,000 to $10,000.

The new coverage becomes effective immediately.

pose to be served by meeting with you . . . and the appointment is canceled."

Cornelius also said the (10:30 a.m.) press conference would not have been possible since legal actions brought by Donohue are pending in the Court of Appeals and the Court of Claims.

As a result, he said, any discussion "for publication" would be improper.

Resnick said in his statement that the questions he wished to ask about the Donohue case "have absolutely no bearing on any aspect of pending court action."

"I find it very difficult to understand why you don't wish the press there," Resnick continued, "unless you have something to hide."

The consulting engineers, who make them, seek not only to find the most efficient size and location for construction of facilities, but also to anticipate future sewage treatment needs of the communities involved. So far, 39 of the studies have been completed and 21 additional grants are soon to start.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market widened its gain under leadership of blue chips and glamor stocks early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

News that General Electric had reached tentative agreement with the largest of its independent unions seems to have a tonic effect on GE and other blue chips. GE ran up more than 3 points.

Word of the tentative settlement was preceded by news that the White House had ordered court action to end the walkouts against the company.

The market was higher from the start and bettered its gains gradually until the GE news when there was a more pronounced improvement.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 7.80 at 786.69.

Steels, autos, electrical equipments, electronics, nonferrous metals and rails were among the gainers.

Litton Industries spurted about 2½.

IBM and Polaroid gained more than 4 each, Xerox more than 3.

Up a point or better were such issues as Texaco, Pan American World Airways, Union Carbide and Metro-Goldwyn Mayer.

American Telephone rose ¼ to 56 on a block of 14,000 shares.

Prices made a fairly sharp advance on the American Stock Exchange.

Obtains Razing Permit, Expect Next Week Start

A permit was obtained today by the William M. Young Co., Inc. of Newark, N. J., from Building Inspector George E. Radcliffe for a second razing of buildings in downtown's Broadway East urban renewal area.

Preliminary work was in progress today and it was expected that an office would be established before the end of the day. Actual demolition of some 300 buildings is not expected to start until next week.

Many buildings have been marked for demolition including such landmarks as the former Cornell building on Ferry Street and other large buildings in that area.

The Young Company had also gained the contract for the razing earlier this year of 79 buildings to clear the site of the 135-unit Roundout Gardens housing project. The Kingston Housing Authority still awaits word from New York on contract approval dealing with that project.

Urges Area . . .

that his committee has "documentation which proves that flood damage along this creek amounts to over $500,000."

In view of this, plus the fact that additional building has taken place since the flood, the committee feels that this would warrant some measure of flood control.

In the invitation of Congressman Resnick and Assemblyman Wilson, Chairman Van Wagenen states "because it is impossible for anyone to realize the horrible conditions that exist in the Esopus Creek, our committee would like to challenge you gentlemen to take a ride on this creek with us on Saturday, Oct. 29, 1966. We will provide the transportation which will leave the Kingston Shopping Plaza at 10 a. m. on that day. From the Shopping Plaza we will attempt to reach the pump house in the town of Ulster where you will be provided transportation back to the Shopping Plaza. For your own welfare, we suggest you bring boots along as we are sure you will be forced to leave the boat because of various obstructions."

Chairman Van Wagenen notes that both the President, Lyndon B. Johnson and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller have expressed their concern over the conditions of the waterways in the country and have asked that they be preserved for future generations.

"This is what our committee is trying to do; and this is what we can do if we can obtain flood control by cleaning out this once beautiful waterway which man has allowed to deteriorate to a disgraceful condition," Chairman Van Wagenen states.

In addition to the presence of Congressman Resnick and Assemblyman Wilson, the committee issues an invitation to Col. Banson and Mr. Evans, "or anyone who is interested because we can promise you an education which we are sure will sicken you as it does us."

The invitation to the local representatives was issued following a committee meeting on October 12 at the home of Frank Jagger, Parish Lane, Town of Ulster. At that time David Bruce of Orlando Street was appointed to the committee.

One Waives Hearing Another Given Term

A defendant waived preliminary hearing today before City Judge Hubert A. Richter to face grand jury action and another was sentenced to 60 days in jail.

Joseph Torrisi, 20, of 95 East Chester Street, one of two defendants caught after allegedly having entered Spada's Sport Shop, 594 Broadway recently, waived hearing. He was charged with third degree burglary and second degree assault. The latter was lodged, police said, because he had pointed a shotgun at Officer Albert Brown, who came upon the two in the store.

George L. Greenige, 16, of 64 VanBuren Street, who police said was apprehended with Torrisi, is due in court Oct. 25. He was charged with third degree burglary.

Attorney Francis Martocci appeared today with Torrisi. Gerald Michaels, 17, of 14 Shufeldt Street, charged recently with malicious mischief, was sentenced to 60 days in jail. It was alleged that he had caused damage to the property of Robert G. Hill, 35 West Chestnut Street.

Rochester Case May Decide Linderman Apartment Status

Kingston and other cities of the state could be affected by a court determination after action this week by the City of Rochester dealing with municipal legislation, it was learned today.

Involved locally will be Common Council action taken last spring on application for approval of a Linderman Avenue apartment house development.

Alderman Edward Norton (D) Seventh Ward, chairman of the Common Council's Laws and Rules Committee, today noted that Rochester has requested permission to file a brief "as a friend of the Appellate Division on the council's appeal in the Linderman Avenue garden apartment project."

The appeal is scheduled for argument in the Appellate Division of the Court of Appeals, Albany on Friday.

Application for the apartment development was by the Income Fund Enterprises Corp., of Jamaica, L. I. As first announced it would be a 273-unit development.

On application of abutting property owners Judge Sidney Foster of the Supreme Court held on May 26 that an ordinance authorizing the project required 10 votes. The amendment was passed by a 9-2 vote with two aldermen absent.

Norton says the council, on appeal from the decision, contends that in the absence of specific provisions to the contrary, Section 83 of the General City Law, and all other statutes that smashed most of the city's ocean-front business and killed a score of persons.

In the California communities of King Salmon, Samoa, Fairhaven and Manila, all near Eureka and Crescent City, between 3,000 and 4,000 persons were evacuated to higher ground.

At Canon Beach and Seaside on the northern Oregon coast all the 4,000 residents were asked to evacuate and the Coast Guard said most complied, going to gymnasiums and National Guard camps.

Alerts went out also in Washington State and in Alaska. The Washington alert was canceled at 4:45 a. m.

Hours after the time predicted if a wave was to come, the Coast Guard reported no unusual tidal activity from San Diego northward.

The islands have been under alert status several times in past years, but waves have never been large except in 1960.

In that year a massive wave generated by an earthquake in Chile shattered the business district of Hilo, capital city of Hawaii Island 200 miles southeast of Honolulu, and killed 62 persons.

U. S. Navy ships at Pearl Harbor remained at their berths but moorings were loosened to allow them to ride increased swells.

The New York Daily News reported from Saigon that it had been told the President would visit U. S. troops in Viet Nam on his way from Manila to Thailand. The report said preliminary planning of arrangements and security measures had begun.

The President's party refused to comment on the report.

Preferred Stocks Are
'Neither Fish Nor Fowl'

Q "I don't remember any recommendations of preferred stock in the column. If you have any, what are they?" F. McK.

A No, I haven't recommended purchase of preferreds, although I have commented occasionally on those held by a reader. Preferred stocks are generally a cross between common stocks and bonds, with the advantages of both but the disadvantages of neither. They do not represent debt like a bond so their dividends may not always be paid regularly, if company earnings are insufficient.

However, these dividends are cumulative. Being limited at the top by their fixed dividend rate, they tend to fluctuate on money rates. In the event of a business reversal or a market decline, they fall along with the market. There are times when carefully selected convertible preferred stocks are suitable for the average investor.

The privilege of converting the preferred into common shares becomes increasingly valuable in a rising market as the price of the common advances. However, this relationship is likely to place a premium on the price of the convertible. This should be carefully appraised by the investor before committing himself. While the money market remains unsettled, I would defer the purchase of convertible preferreds.

Q "Do you see any immediate future for Jupiter Corporation on the American Exchange?" N. S.

A The company offered no explanation for a net loss of $600,248 reported for the first half of 1966, contrasted with a profit of $169,590 for the first half of 1965. Management is expecting more satisfactory operations for the remainder of the year. While it is true that revenues have risen consistently since 1960, management is unable to show a profit. Annual deficits go back to 1960.

It seems to me that Jupiter's directors have "too many irons in the fire." Any immediate upturn in earnings seems unlikely as there are heavy interest charges, development costs, and other corporate expenses to meet. Your funds should be invested where earnings are rising with revenues.

"Why can't Daddy just be square, like other fathers?"

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Oct. 18, the 29th day of 1966. There are 74 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1921, the U.S. Senate ratified the separate treaty of peace which had been signed Aug. 25 with Germany, thus officially closing the books on World War I.

On this date:

In 1943, U.S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov met in Moscow.

In 1944 Russian troops invaded Czechoslovakia.

In 1945, 24 high-ranking Nazis were indicted in Berlin, charged with conspiring against world peace.

Ten years ago...The International Monetary Fund granted to France the right to purchase for francs up to $252,500,000 in the next year to help it build up its gold and dollar reserves.

Five years ago...Gen. Maxwell Taylor, sent to Viet Nam by President Kennedy, began a seven-day series of talks in Saigon with U.S. and Vietnamese military leaders and Saigon government officials.

One year ago...David Miller, 22, was arrested by FBI agents in New York and charged with burning his draft car at an anti-Viet Nam war demonstration.

Lindbloom People Would Go to Court if Asked

At least five people who worked to gather signatures of petitions nominating Eric Lindbloom, the Independent candidate for the 28th Congressional District, said today they had volunteered to appear in Albany Supreme Court to testify to their good faith and practices although subpoenas against them have been quashed.

Gerry Mark, petition chairman for the Lindbloom campaign, said he had a list of over 100 signature gatherers and signers who had agreed to risk loss of a day's pay and inconvenience to go to Albany and affirm the integrity of their efforts on behalf of Eric Lindbloom. Although 15 witnesses and as many as 300 voter registration books were subpoenaed, only two people have testified and the books have not been used after a week of court proceedings.

Ulster County Judge Raymond J. Mino, sitting as Supreme Court Judge, has denied several motions by Gottleib and Gottleib, New York attorneys for Irwin Karchmer, which sought to have petitions invalidated for several technical reasons.

A spokesman for the Lindbloom campaign said, "We feel like David Fighting the Lion. We are dealing with a formidable machine behind Karchmer but we have lots of energy, a strong sense of mission and we plan to fight this challenge all the way. It makes us feel good to remember that David won although armed only with a sling-shot."

Call to Change

MONTREAT, N. C. (AP) — Like a person, the Christian church always is in the process of "either growing or dying," says the Rev. Dr. John F. Anderson, Jr., of Atlanta, a southern Presbyterian official. He told a conference here that the vitality of the church depends on its willingness to change.

Today's Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Once considered the solace of wealthy, coupon-clipping widows, corporate and municipal bonds now are beginning to accumulate in the safe deposit boxes of middle-income investors.

The reasons are safety and yield. Bonds have a long record of security, most of them coming through the Great Depression without default. Their yield, or interest, is the highest in years. And tax exemptions on some make the rate even higher.

Notes Start of Trend
Tight money is spurring improving bond yields. Some banks, which had been big buyers of municipal bonds, appear to be selling now to raise cash for high-return business loans. Lewis Schellbach, senior vice president of Standard & Poor's Corp., believes a trend has begun—that the investors with small and middle-size incomes will continue to include bonds with stocks in their portfolios.

There are more of them buying bonds now than ever before, he said. "They'll stay with bonds, too, once they realize the beauty of them—the safety and the yield."

Since a bond represents debt, or money you have lent a government or company, the ability to repay determines the rating. A stock, on the other hand, represents ownership in a corporation.

Good municipal bonds now yield the buyer around 3.80 per cent interest. Since these bonds generally are used to build public facilities such as sewers or water systems, they are tax free.

Bonds Not as Easy to Buy
Corporate bonds also offer high interest. The best rates now average about 5.40 per cent—one of the best returns to be found even without any tax benefits.

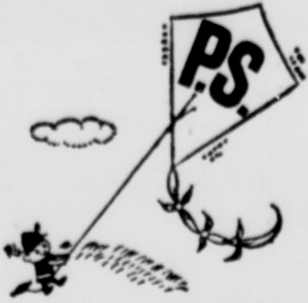

Assuming you have the proper knowledge, advice and money, you may approach the situation by telling the broker the quality and maturity you wish to buy.

Bonds are not as easy to purchase as are stocks. If you buy a bond you usually hold on to it for five to 30 years. There is little turnover, and the average broker seldom pushes them.

Bonds also come in much larger denominations than stocks. Typically they have a face amount of 1,000, although a few denominations may be in multiples of $100.

When the term of the bond is completed, the days of interest are over. The issuer redeems the security at its face value by returning your original investment. Your reward for the loan has been the interest.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:

I am so excited I can hardly wait to tell you...

This is not only for those who are on tight budgets, but also for those who just love spaghetti with meat balls or meat sauce.

The main complaint I have gotten from husbands is, "My wife serves spaghetti, and it's so colorless and unappetizing."

Well, MY husband got to where he said the same thing.

When I was boiling spaghetti last night, after putting salt and a little oil in the water, it dawned on me, "Why can't this look like egg noodles — so rich looking and yellow?"

So I picked up my bottle of yellow food coloring, and poured in ten drops of the food coloring. After all, I couldn't lose anything but a box of spaghetti if he didn't like it.

I could not believe that the coloring would actually soak into the spaghetti itself, and make it the rich, beautiful color of our homemade egg noodles.

But you know what? It did! It was the most luscious, egg-colored spaghetti you have ever seen in your life. It looked like it was made from pure butter and eggs.

My husband commented that it looked like it had cheese in it.

So, gals, next time you cook some spaghetti, please put a little bit of yellow food coloring in it. You'll be surprised how appetizing it looks — the psychological effect is most amazing!

P.S. This also works with egg noodles, and that plain ole white macaroni we buy.

Be sure to pick up a bottle of yellow food coloring. It's one of the least expensive things you can purchase for your household today and it isn't loaded with calories.

Dear Heloise:

I would like to add a hint regarding using a little girl's dress as a clothspin bag.

One can also use a little dress (sew hem closed across the bottom and insert a hanger in the same manner as for the clothespin bag) as a laundry bag for hose, lingerie, etc.

Mine looks darling hanging in the closet.

Mrs. J.A.B.

Dear Heloise:

Those old plastic laundry baskets make wonderful dog or cat beds.

Just cut one down and put an old pillow in it.

Cover the pillow with an old towel, made like a pillow case, and when it is soiled, just pop it into the washer or replace it.

Mrs. M. R. Kaylor

Dear Heloise:

My husband suggests that in the case of any glass shelf, etc., which might cut a person, that you smooth the edges with emery cloth. You can also round glass edges this way.

He has done this for me, and it works fine.

No taping the edges to bother with, either.

Mrs. E. R. Winters

An excellent safety idea, Mr. Winters.

The edges of glass shelves in refrigerators and bathroom cabinets should be checked and smoothed or rounded, if need be.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

The nightgown of a peignoir set usually wears out first — leaving a peignoir with no gown to match.

Put buttons and buttonholes down the front opening of the peignoir, and it makes a nice nightgown — instead of being useless.

Kathryn Wilson

Dear Heloise:

Cleaning out white metal awnings was really a job until I started using nylon net wrapped around my sponge.

The net is abrasive enough to loosen the dirt but not scratch the awning, and the sponge holds the cleaning liquid and wipes up the dirt.

City Fathers Alarmed

Filmdom's Dream City May Choke on Taxes and Space

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Are movie studios going to run away from Los Angeles? The city government is alarmed at the prospect of planning steps to prevent it.

This month the mayor's Economic Development Board took official notice of the situation by appointing a committee to study means of inducing studios to remain in the metropolitan area.

Suggestions for encouragement included zoning advantages and a new studio complex within the city. But it's entirely possible that the city will come up with too little too late.

The trend in recent years has been a reduction of film making in Hollywood — a nongeographic term since studios are also located in Culver City, Westwood, Burbank, Universal City, and Studio City. Obsolete studios such as Hal Roach's have been leveled for shopping centers, and no new studios have been built.

Several of the big studios are reaching the ripe age of 40 and require extensive overhauls to be modernized. Most are in areas that are heavily taxed. As a result, they have started eyeing future moves to less populated areas. Not incidentally, they hope to escape Los Angeles' smog, which sometimes interferes with outdoor shooting.

Idea Kept Alive

Three years ago MGM, 20th Century-Fox and Columbia startled the industry by revealing the discussions for a combined studio to be built on Fox Ranch in Malibu Canyon. The talks came to naught, but the idea of seeking new quarters for filmmaking was not abandoned.

MGM took an option on 1,500 acres at Conejo, north of the San Fernando Valley, and ordered a feasibility survey on building a new studio there. Preliminary sketches were drawn up, and a construction cost of $32 million was estimated.

Fox, which had to sell its back lot — now Century City — to survive the "Cleopatra" debacle, found itself short of space when the company's fortunes reversed. The management ordered a survey by Stanford Research Institute to determine whether building a new studio was economically sound.

Fox to Stay Until '70
Stanford Research decreed that Fox should stay at the Westwood lot until 1970. The studio has added six new stages to take care of the production overflow. Eventually the entire operation will be shifted to the company's 3,000 acres in Malibu Canyon, a 30-minute drive from the present studio.

With Metropolitan Los Angeles continuing to press on the pioneering studios, it seems apparent that some of them will be on the move. Says Columbia production chief Mike Frankovich: "It will come some day. I keep telling my son to buy all the land he can afford in the San Fernando Valley because all of the studios will be out there eventually."

Crews Cleaning Up After Derailement

ALDEN, N.Y. (AP)— Railroad work crews began a cleanup operation today in the wake of a 40-car freight-train derailement along the Erie-Lackawanna main line in this community 15 miles east of Buffalo. The train, believed to have totaled about 90 cars, was carrying general freight from Scranton, Pa. to Buffalo when the derailement began in the 32nd car Monday night. Many of the cars were empty, railroad officials said.

cause and damage estimate were not determined immediately.

The crash tore up sections of the road bed and scattered wreckage for a half-mile along the track.

The engine and first 31 cars continued the trip to Buffalo. The catoose and several other cars at the rear of the train that stayed on the track, were to be towed to Attica, east of here.

Like whales, porpoises are descended from land animals.

DO YOU TAKE VITAMINS AND STILL FEEL TIRED?

Here's How To Feel Stronger Fast

Have you been feeling tired and rundown lately? And do you take vitamins yet still feel tired? If so, your trouble may be due to iron-poor, tired blood. Vitamins alone can't build up iron-poor blood. But GERITOL can! That's because just 2 GERITOL tablets, or 2 table-spoons of GERITOL liquid contain 7 vitamins plus twice the blood-building iron in a whole pound of calf's liver.

In only one day GERITOL iron is in your bloodstream carrying strength and energy to every part of your body. Check with your doctor, and if iron-poor blood is making you feel tired, take GERITOL, liquid or tablets, every day. Feel stronger fast—in 7 days—or money back from GERITOL.

Jane Ann Hyatt, Arthur J. Riftenbary Wed

MRS. ARTHUR J. RIFENBARY (Photo Workshop)

Miss Jane Ann Hyatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Hyatt of 29 Josephine Avenue, Kingston, exchanged marriage vows with Arthur J. Riftenbary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Cahill of 28 Hillcrest Avenue, Kingston, on Saturday, October 8, in St. Joseph's Church, this city.

The Rev. John T. Mulligan of St. Joseph's was the officiating clergyman and participating in the service was the Rev. William A. Studwell of Clinton Avenue Methodist Church. James Sweeney was organist and Kenneth E. Hyatt Jr., cousin of the bride, sang "Pans Angelicus" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Baskets of white chrysanthemums decorated the church for the occasion. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk lined fashioned along A-lines. Its hem and jewel neckline was bordered in antique respoint lace and small lace appliques accented the bodice. Attached to a matching pillbox was a full length veil of silk illusion. The bride carried a cascade of white pompons with pink baby roses.

Christina Evory of 42 Shufeldt Street, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor in a gown styled similarly to that worn by the bride but with matching petal headpiece. She carried a cascade of white pompons with pink baby roses.

Edward Campbell of Plattkill was best man for his nephew. Ushers were David J. Hyatt, brother of the bride, and Frederick Campbell, uncle of the bridegroom.

A reception for the immediate families was given at the Nieuw Dorp in Hurley.

Mr. and Mrs. Riftenbary are graduates of Kingston High School. Mrs. Riftenbary is employed by IBM in Kingston and Mr. Riftenbary is employed by IBM in Poughkeepsie.

When the couple returns from Miami Beach, Fla., they will be at home at 94 Downs Street, Kingston.

Doing The Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

INVITATION WITHHELD TO AVOID EMBARRASSMENT

Dear Mrs. Post: Several weeks ago a dear friend of mine gave a far-well tea for a neighbor and didn't invite me. I have been deeply offended and a cold feeling is creeping between us. Although I hadn't spoken to the neighbor for two years is due to a misunderstanding over our children, I felt I deserved the opportunity to accept or refuse to attend the tea. Perhaps this would have been the occasion to show our neighbor there were no hard feelings and to wish her luck in her new home. Was my friend wrong not to invite me or am I wrong to feel badly about the situation? —Charlotte S.

Dear Charlotte: Don't let this ruin a friendship. I suppose your friend, knowing you were not on good terms with the neighbor, refrained from inviting you in order to save you embarrassment, not to cause it. She undoubtedly had no idea that you wished to use the occasion to mend past damages, and sincerely believed you would refuse in any case. Warm up that cold feeling, even if you have to go to your friend with apologies and a full explanation.

Who Put on Anniversary Party?

Dear Mrs. Post: I was matron of honor at my brother's wedding 25 years ago. They did not celebrate their 25th anniversary and told me that it was up to me to give them a party. Please give me your opinion?

—Rosind K.

Dear Rosind: It was definitely not up to you to give the party. Of course you could, if you had wished, but for more often anniversary celebrations are arranged by the couple's children or the couple themselves.

"Who Is Calling?" Makes Caller Cross

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it is proper for a teen to answer the phone and ask who is speaking if the party being called is home? When I call my friend and her grand-daughter answers and says, "Yes, she is home. Who is calling?" it makes me very cross. Am I wrong? —Concerned.

Dear Concerned: If the person called is busy so that it is necessary for her to call back, the one who answers, child or adult, must of course, ask who is calling. When the person called is readily available, it does sometimes sound like curiosity. However, many people like to know who is on the phone before they answer and your friend's granddaughter may have been instructed to inquire.

Hostesses Will Vary During First Lady's Trip to Far East

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

On the other side of the world, waiting for Lady Bird Johnson, are a queen who sews her own clothes, a First Lady who won a beauty contest, a prime minister's wife who runs a dress shop.

Five other women, not a whit less colorful, are waiting, too.

They all will be hostesses to the U.S. First Lady when she arrives with President Johnson in 17-day, 25,000-mile journey that may turn out to be her most memorable adventure.

She herself has visited the Philippines and Thailand, Australia, New Zealand, South Korea and Malaysia will be new to her, although, with her customary thoroughness, she has studied up on the countries, peoples, institutions and statues.

When Mrs. Johnson arrives in New Zealand Oct. 19 she will have two hostesses: Lady Laura Fergusson, wife of the queen's representative, Gov. Gen. Sir Bernard Fergusson, and Norma Holyoake, wife of Prime Minister Keith J. Holyoake.

While the American First Lady is staying at the governor general's home, Lady Fergusson will be her hostess. Mrs. Holyoake is expected to entertain her at a luncheon.

When the presidential party reaches Australia, the second stop, the idea is to let Mrs. Johnson see and be seen. Her assistant press secretary, Marta Ross, has been in Canberra, Australia's national capital, for some days preparing for the visit.

When Lady Bird Johnson greets the prime minister's wife, Mrs. Harold E. Holt, it will be renewing a friendship begun when the Holts visited Washington.

Zara Holt is a plump, gay, warmhearted woman who opened her first dress shop in Melbourne at 18 and now conducts one of Australia's leading fashion houses in her spare time. Mother of three married sons, she, like Mrs. Johnson, is a devoted companion to her husband. The Holts travel together, play tennis and waterski together.

In the Philippines, the third stop, the Johnsons will be returning a neighborly call on President and Mrs. Ferdinand

E. Marcos who visited and captivated Washington only last month.

Dressed in butterfly-sleeved ternos, the national Philippine costume, the lovely Imelda Marcos will be Lady Bird Johnson's knowledgeable guide and hostess.

A statuesque 5 feet 7, Mrs. Marcos — who was Miss Manila in 1954 — will be pleased to show off, among other national treasures, her three children, Imelda, 11, Ferdinand Jr., 7, and Irene 5.

On to Thailand it will be exchanging one beautiful young hostess for another. Queen Sirikit, 34, is considered one of the best-dressed women in the world. She speaks fluent French and English, loves classical and modern music, paints, keeps active in charitable organizations and the Red Cross, and is the fond mother of four.

In contrast with the sophisticated, world-traveled Sirikit are the two shy, tiny housewives who will be hostesses to the presidential pair in Malaysia.

One is Queen Zahar, and the other is the prime minister's wife, Puan Sharifah Roziah.

Both women were reared in strict, old-fashioned Malay tradition. They try to stay in the background during official functions; when they do converse with foreign visitors it's through interpreters.

Queen Zahara still cooks and sews her own clothes despite her husband's assumption to the throne last April. She is 36, has been married 22 years, and has four sons and six daughters.

Puan Sharifah, wife of Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman, also cooks, sews — on the same sewing machine she had 20 years ago — and runs their rambling hilltop residence, although a large staff is at hand.

When Mrs. Johnson reaches Seoul on the last leg of the trip, she'll renew acquaintance with a First Lady who is also a doer. Mrs. Chung Hee Park, 40, wife of South Korea's president, devotes much time to welfare for working women and the underprivileged. She'll be sure to show these projects to Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. Park's English at the moment doesn't go much beyond greetings. But language is no barrier to understanding between two women who believe in extending all their energy in support of their presidential husbands.

Junior Troop 71

Seven girls from St. Mary's Junior Troop 71, recently attended open house at John Burroughs, Slabside, West Park. After lunch and a visit to the cabin, Dr. Alfred Adams, entomologist, conducted a nature walk throughout the area. William Fennell, president of the John Burroughs National Association, walked with the scouts and pointed out the many varieties of trees, shrubs and plants which were growing in all their autumn splendor. The girls also saw many unfamiliar birds and learned the names of a few.

The following girls made the trip: Judy Fautz, Judy Booth, Betty Long, Kim Ferraro, Debbie Cline, MaryAnn Forgey and Roberta McDonough. Adults were Mrs. Frank Graney, leader and Mrs. R. Booth who provided transportation.

One Patrol of Troop 71, under the guidance of Senior Scout JoAnn Pagliaro made tray favors for Columbus Day for the TB Hospital.

Dear Abby . . .

This Daddy Has A Lot to Learn

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The other night one of the fellows who works with my husband dropped by unexpectedly with his family. They have a 16-year-old daughter (I'll call her "Jane") who is the age of our oldest daughter. "Jane" spent the entire evening sitting on the arm of my husband's chair.

She had her arm around him, fooling with his hair, playfully fishing in his shirt pockets and generally playing up to him. I was horrified as my children watched this exhibition. Jane's parents acted as tho they thought it was cute. When they left I was white with anger.

I will say my husband didn't encourage the girl, but he didn't discourage her either. We can't avoid seeing these people, but I can't take another evening like that one. How can it be avoided without causing hard feelings?

HORRIFIED MOTHER

DEAR HORRIFIED: The girl's mother should have taught her daughter long ago to find playmates her own age. But now that your husband knows how "Jane" behaves, he should good-humoredly keep her at arm's length. No grown man has to put up with that kind of nonsense unless he wants to.

DEAR ABBY: I used to go with a real sweet boy, but I moved away. I tried to make the best of it so I made new friends. Then I got asked to a party by another boy and my first boy friend got real mad. He asked me for his ring and all the love letters he had written to me. I didn't mind giving him back his ring, but I was wondering about the letters.

I know if I send them back to him he will just rip them up because if his mother ever saw those letters he would be in real trouble. I'd like to keep his letters for memories because he was the first boy I ever loved. What do you suggest?

WANTS MEMORIES

DEAR WANTS: If I were you, I'd rip up the letters because if YOUR mother ever found them, YOU might be in real trouble.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter (I'll call her Pam) is being married this Christmas and we are planning to give her a lovely big church wedding. Her oldest sister (I'll call her Sue) was married eight years ago at a very simple wedding because that was all we could afford at the time.

Our problem is that well-meaning relatives have tipped us off that Sue is very hurt because SHE didn't get anywhere near the kind of wedding we are planning for Pam, and we would be wise to hold down the wedding a bit for Sue's sake. Now I am really torn. I love both girls equally and don't want hard feelings in the family. What do you think?

TORN

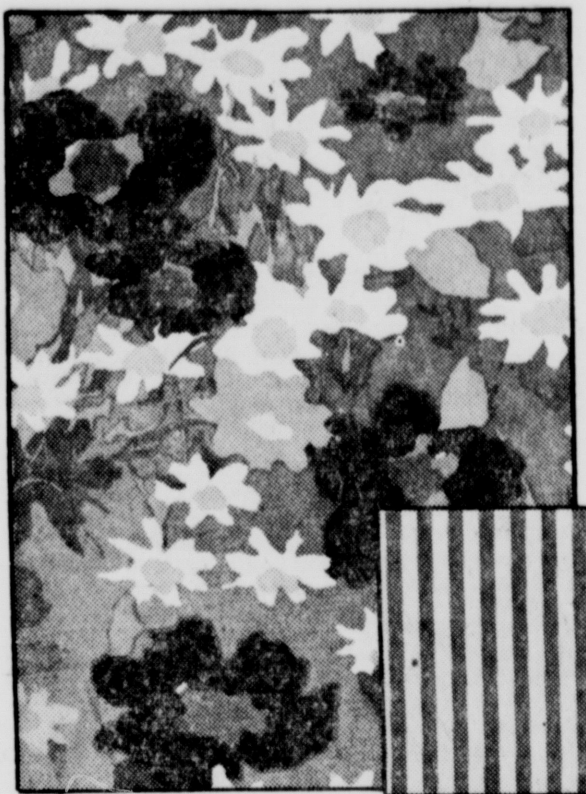

DEAR TORN: More hard feelings are caused from "tips" from well-meaning relatives than by just blundering along and doing the best you can with no inside information. Give Pam the best wedding you can afford. That's what you did for Sue.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "XYZ" in Lockport, N. Y.: One never "announces" a trial separation. The husband usually quietly moves out of the house. The less talking you both do to friends the better your chances for reconciliation.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

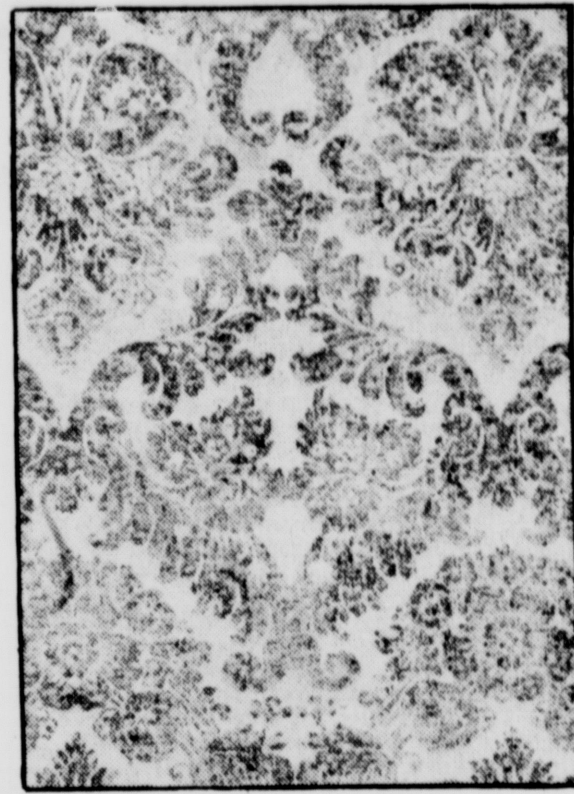

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

UCCC Cross Country Team Wins 3rd Straight

Showing well-rounded strength, the Ulster County Community College cross country team yesterday defeated Adirondack Community College in Kingston, 19-36, for its third successive win this fall.

The Ulster squad will run against the New Paltz State University runners over the Kingston course at Dietz Stadium on Thursday afternoon.

Winning the four-mile race yesterday for the Ulster Senators was John Sullivan, a former Kingston High School runner, who covered the course in 22 minutes, 18 seconds.

"John cut two minutes off his best previous time," said Dick Glazer, the Ulster coach. "He's the most improved runner on the team and I'm expecting even better times from him in the future."

Tying for second and third were Barry Hopkins and John Roettger, of UCCC, who posted identical times of 22:23.

"These boys give us three strong runners," said Coach Glazer. "Hopkins won the first meet against Orange County Community College, Roettger was first last week against Dutchess Community College, and now Sullivan has finished first."

Vaughn Springer, of Adirondack, was fourth yesterday with a time of 23:52, while Brian Elmendorf, of Ulster, was a close fifth in 23:55.

"Brian has shown continual improvement," said Coach Glazer, "and cut 40 seconds off his best previous time. I look for him to do even better before the season ends."

Dan Tallon, of Adirondack, was sixth in 27:03, Jim Harrington, of Adirondack, was seventh in 27:21, and Joe O'Brien of Ulster, was eighth in 28:17. Craig McDonald, of Adirondack, was ninth in 28:55.

Schirmer Aids Miami Upset Win

CORAL GABLES, Fla.—Brilliant pass rushing by Billy Schirmer of Saugerties, was credited with being a key factor in a 7-6 victory of University of Miami over previously undefeated University of Georgia.

The Bulldogs were reputed to have a fairly good passing game—but managed only 52 yards in 20 tries for 52 yards. Kirby Moore, their option play quarterback, had been running wild over previous foes but his longest run against Miami was five yards and he had a net of 11 in nine carries.

Georgia wound up with 42 rushing yards as the Bulldogs had to settle for two field goals after early game Miami misplays.

The Hurricanes next play Indiana Friday night in the Orange Bowl.

Ontora Jayvees Top Rondout, 26-0

Ontora's unbeaten Jayvee football team scored a 26-0 win over Rondout Valley Saturday. The Indians had 19 points in the first half and coasted after that.

Maury of Ontora tallied three touchdowns and an extra point. He ran 55, 5 and 30 yards. Selby took a 55 yard scoring pass for the other score. Gale ran for an extra point.

Coach Larry Skalla's Ganders have a 1-2 record.

Unheralded Jersey Youth Proves Defensive Standout With Cadets

His name hasn't made many headlines this fall nor is anyone speaking in all-America terms about him, but to the coaches at the U. S. Military Academy, Bohdan (Bud) Neswischeny of Somerville, N. J., is as valuable a player as Army has.

Listen to what head coach Tom Cahill has to say about him. "When I scouted Bud at Somerville High, I felt he had quite a bit of potential to make it big at West Point. I can honestly say now he has exceeded every expectation. Without a doubt, he is a credit to his family, to his community, to the Corps of Cadets."

Bob Ward, Army's defensive line coach, likewise is high on Neswischeny. "I can't say enough nice things about him. He's easily one of our best athletes. Every day he gives us 100 per cent, whether it be a contact or dummy scrimmage."

Continuing on Coach Ward had this to say. "When I came to West Point this past May, I heard a lot of nice comments about many of the Army players. Little was said about Neswischeny, yet when practice started late in August, I was more impressed with him than with anyone else on the team."

Legitimate Regular
"I've coached at Maryland, Oklahoma and Iowa State, and have had the privilege of working with some exceptional players. Bud Neswischeny could have played on any of those teams, and this year could find a spot on any team in the country, bar none."

Neswischeny, a standout player while at Somerville in both football and basketball, got off to a rocky start at West Point. He wasn't here a month before he had to have a knee operation, yet he played in every game as a Plebe and won his numerals. Needless to say, his recovery was nothing short of miraculous.

Spring practice got underway in 1965, and one week later Neswischeny was again on the operating table. He returned in the fall, was switched from offense to defense, and by mid-season had a starting job at a defensive tackle slot. He held it until the end of the season when he was one of 31 players receiving varsity letters.

Vote Boog Powell Comeback of Year

By MIKE RHEA

BALTIMORE (AP) — It's not that John (Boog) Powell isn't grateful and honored, but he hopes there will never be another reason to select him as Comeback Player of the Year in the American League.

"It's one award I don't want to win again," said Powell on Monday, when informed of his selection in The Associated Press poll. "I consider it an honor, but once is enough."

The 250-pound first baseman hit 34 homers in the regular season, had 109 runs batted in, and a .287 batting average. He polled 124 votes in the balloting by 312 baseball writers.

Powell was runner-up in RBI, third in homers and fourth in batting. In 1965, he hit only .248 with 17 homers and 72 runs batted in.

Another Oriole, shortstop Luis Aparicio, was second in the voting with 32 votes and California Angels hurler Jack Sanford was third with 27.

Aparicio, who has returned to his home in Venezuela for the winter, had threatened to retire following the 1965 season in which he batted .225. He claimed that his wife convinced him to make another try and he thanked her publicly at the end of this season. Aparicio batted .276 in 151 games for his best year since 1960, when he hit .277 for the Chicago White Sox.

Sanford compiled a 13-7 record for the Angels, pitching in 50 games, 45 in relief. Last year with San Francisco of the National League, the 37-year-old right-hander was 5-7. He had 24 victories for the Giants in 1962 and 16 in 1963. In 1964 he underwent elbow surgery.

KWBA Sweeper

Ends Saturday

The annual KWBA sweepstakes got under way Sunday and will continue through next Saturday.

Bowlers may enter in each league in which they bowl. Under new rules, each establishment will have its own prize list this year.

There will be first and second place winners in each establishment. The additional number of places will be based on the number of bowlers entered from each establishment.

Handicaps are based on 80 per cent difference between league averages and 200 scratch.

Anne Cummings, chairman of this year's sweeps, reminds all bowlers that entry in the sweeps automatically makes one a member of the Cheer and Sympathy Fund and eligible to all its benefits.

Money raised will be used to extend cheer to the ill, sympathy in case of death in the immediate family and donations to charity from the association.

League presidents and secretaries have full details on the sweeps.

The cheer and sympathy committee for the 1966-67 season includes: Amy Miller, chairman; Adeline Teague, Woodstock; Nell Alverson, New Paltz; Marilyn Grassi, Rosendale; Edith Lawrence, Kingston.

Eagles' Brown Is An Actor, Too

NEW YORK (AP) — When the Philadelphia Eagles kid Timmy Brown about his ambitions to become an actor, the star halfback has a ready answer.

"When I make it big, you'll be coming around to the back door," Timmy answers with a smile. "Don't ask me for any ringside table."

Brown was in town for his weekly acting lesson at the Herbert Berghoff studio in the Village. He comes up from Philadelphia every Monday, an off day for pro football players, and reads scripts or observes from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

"I don't like to use football in connection with my acting career," said Timmy who has made several recordings as a popular singer. "I started singing five years ago and made some recordings — all bombs. I think acting will be my forte in the long run."

Played Summer Stock Brown broke into the acting business in summer stock at Bucks County in Pennsylvania, playing in the Thurber Carnival with Dodie Goodman and Eddie Bracken.

"I divide my life in six months football and six months with my other career," he said. "Timmy is a sensitive man with great pride in his ability. He is disappointed because he is not having as good a football season as he hoped."

"Maybe I expect too much of myself," he said. "My friends will tell you that I never think I have had a good game."

Timmy had a good day against Pittsburgh Sunday when he carried 23 times for 96 yards, top rushing performance in the National Football League for the week. He also caught two passes for 15 yards and scored a touchdown.

Blaylock Named Syracuse Manager

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Gary Blaylock, a former pitcher with the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals baseball teams, is the new manager of the Syracuse Chiefs in the International League.

Blaylock, 35, was named Monday to run the club during the 1967 baseball season, at an undisclosed salary.

He played in the majors in the late 1950s and has been a manager in the Yankee farm organization since 1962. Last year, he piloted the Greensboro club of the Carolina League to a fifth-place finish.

Syracuse now has a working arrangement with the Yankees, although last season the last-place team was affiliated with the Detroit Tigers.

Blaylock succeeds Frank Caswell, who remains in the Tigers organization.

Seek Injunction Against NHL Move

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Blades of the Western Hockey League have asked superior court for an injunction to stop formation of a National Hockey League team in the Los Angeles area.

A suit, filed Monday, charges that Los Angeles sportsman Jack Kent Cooke "unlawfully induced the National Hockey League to grant a franchise to him."

RPI Football Ace Resigns From Squad

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute quarterback Bob Nicoletta, who owns virtually all RPI passing records in football, says he quit the squad because of "heavy academic pressure."

Nicoletta said Monday he was "too worried about my grades" to continue on the team. Nicoletta, of Utica, is a junior majoring in architecture.

Football coach Dick Riendeau said the loss would be a setback for the team. RPI offers no athletic scholarships.

New England Skier Eyes Olympic Berth

STOWE, Vt. (AP) — Billy Kidd, the injured skiing star from Stowe, says don't count him out of the Winter Olympics in 1968.

Kidd was presented Monday night with the New England Council's annual silver bowl award for outstanding contribution to New England skiing.

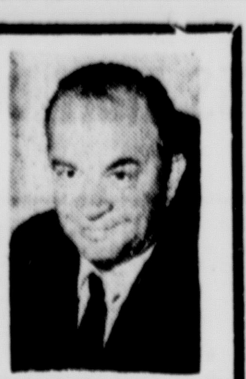

Kidd still has a cast on his right leg, smashed two days before the start of the International Ski Races at Portillo, Chile, last summer.

He told Council members the cast must stay on six months to a year, but said he expects to start skiing again next summer or fall. And he said he hopes to be in the 1968 Olympics.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

Starting with the 1967 season, the United States Golf Association will recommend handicaps based on the best 10 of the last 20 scores (now best 10 of last 25).

Other changes in the rule announced today stipulate (b) method of computing—85 per cent of the average of best 10 differentials between scores and course ratings (now 80 per cent plus one stroke); (c) incompletable holes—estimated scores allowable for larger number of incompletable holes, under new controls; and (d) handicap limits—men and women—36 (now 50).

Generally speaking, area golf courses have maintained 30 handicap limit for men and 40 for women, with some at 45.

The USGA estimates the new formula probably will produce slight increase in some high handicaps.

The changes are part of the USGA's continuing effort to encourage national uniformity in handicapping, so that a given handicap has the same meaning anywhere. The present USGA System is used in almost all major golf districts in the United States and in at least 15 foreign countries.

Need Better Merchandising

An area woman who is sports-minded and knowledgeable may have put her finger on the obstacles soccer may have to overcome in its bid for national recognition starting in 1967. Commenting on her first visit to a soccer game, she remarked: "I sat there for nearly two hours watching players run up and down the field. There were no numbers on the backs of the players and no programs. Nobody explained anything and the public address system was silent throughout the afternoon. Finally, somebody blew a whistle, the players walked off the field and the game was over."

You may be sure the new professional soccer league, operated by U.S. interests, will not make these mistakes. There will be numbers on the players, programs and PA system commentary. A la part of the soccer game, however, is that Maris makes the big announcement before the 1967 spring training season opens. . . . Why doesn't Pete Rozelle stop bellyaching about Congressional approval of the pro merger and adopt a common draft between AFL and NFL along the lines of major league baseball. In either case it's legalized slavery but the baseball draft at least gives the player a chance to negotiate with more than one club. The current pro draft rules permit a player to play out his option but after that the player is on the drop dead list when he tries to move from one league to another.

Flotsam and Jetsam

The Ski Touring Council's 1966-67 schedule lists stops at Rosendale on Feb. 12; Minnewaska, March 12 and Belleayre, March 19. . . . Ralph Houk's announcement that Mickey Mantle hopes to play 100-115 games in 1967 and Roger Maris will be back shouldn't bewilder saddened Yankee rooters. It was strictly for the trade and an effort to maintain Maris' "market value." The betting among the New York scribes, however, is that Maris makes the big announcement before the 1967 spring training season opens. . . . Why doesn't Pete Rozelle stop bellyaching about Congressional approval of the pro merger and adopt a common draft between AFL and NFL along the lines of major league baseball. In either case it's legalized slavery but the baseball draft at least gives the player a chance to negotiate with more than one club. The current pro draft rules permit a player to play out his option but after that the player is on the drop dead list when he tries to move from one league to another.

Don't get furious when TV commercials blip out the start of an inning or resumption of football action. With the going rate $70,000 a minute, the commercials come first. . . . Jack Nicklaus' rhubarb with the British referee in the recent World Match Play tournament in England was not calculated to improve his already distorted image among American golf fans.

POME: As a tackle he was a demon; He did rather well as a guard; Tried as a back he didn't track; He carried too much of the load.

Book Fair Gets Underway in Area

This spring the Bennett School Olympic Team will be smartly dressed in white and maroon T-shirts with the name "Bennett" across the front. At the P-TA Executive Board meeting held recently, the board unanimously voted to provide funds for the purchase of 30 shirts to be used for Olympic competition.

In accordance with the Executive Board's request, Robert Braum, representative to the school board, reported he had submitted the following proposals:

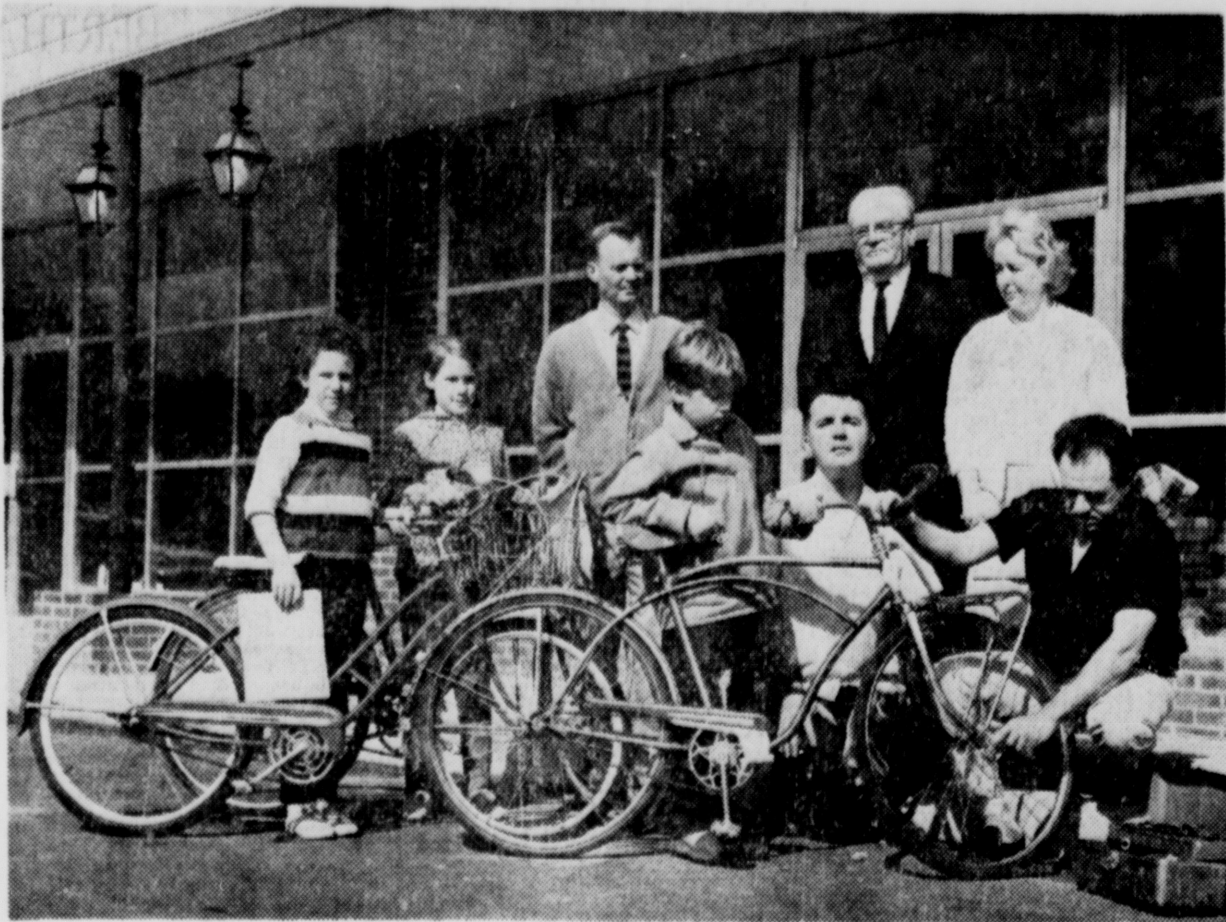

1. Continuation of the highly successful summer reading program conducted at Bennett.
2. Request for a full-time physiologist for the Bennett School. Braum said the proposals were favorably received by the Board of Education and would be taken under consideration.

Mrs. Mary Farstad, newly appointed book fair chairman, received posters, balloons and pamphlets to prepare for the annual Book Fair which is being held today and Wednesday at Bennett School. The fair will be open during the hours of 7 to 10 o'clock tonight and 8:30 a. m. to noon on Wednesday.

The book fair display includes classics, fiction, biographies, adventure stories, science, nature, craft, mystery and reference books. Everyone is cordially invited to take advantage of this fine selection of books.

The first regular meeting of Bennett P-TA will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Open House, an annual event, will be held after an introduction of teachers by Principal Ronald Vanni. Parents are then invited to take a tour through the school and visit with the teachers. Refreshments will be served.

Everyone attending is urged to enroll in the Bennett P-TA. Membership is nominal per family and the membership committee will be available for anyone wishing to join. Dues make up by far the greatest portion of P-TA financial support and its services to the children are in direct proportion to the number of members enrolled.

BICYCLE ROUND-UP SUCCESSFUL — As the Woodstock Elementary School P-TA sponsored a Bicycle Round-up and inspection Sunday afternoon at the Bradley Meadows shopping center parking lot, more than 60 enthusiastic youngsters turned out to have their two-wheelers inspected for safety and to compete in road tests. Among some of the many participants were (l-r) in the first row: Martha Frisone, principal of Woodstock School; and Carol Eichorn, P-TA president. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

tests for balance, pedaling and braking, turning around, emergency and stop and signaling, mounting and dismounting. Malloy was chairman and organizer of the event with Manganaro, owner of a local bicycle repair shop, inspected the bikes for safety devices. In the second row (l-r) are Carlton Conklin, Ulster County 4H head, who helped set up the Bicycle Safety Program here; Walter Van Wageningen, principal of Woodstock School; and Carol Eichorn, P-TA president. Bi-Partisan Tea Held for Demo Candidate Here

The first of a series of Woodstock Democratic Party "Meet Your Candidate" gatherings was held Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Miller, 18 Blue Stone Road, Woodstock.

The purpose of this informal evening was to afford an opportunity to citizens of Woodstock, regardless of party affiliation, to meet the Democratic candidate for Councilman, Dr. Audrey Bell Hamilton, and to discuss her stand in local issues. This first function, which was well attended by Republicans as well as Democrats, was arranged by a bi-partisan committee of citizens, who believe that Dr. Hamilton will make a valuable contribution to Woodstock's town government. The committee is headed by Raymond White, Republican; Mrs. Susan Bair, Republican; Mrs. Jean White, Democrat and Mrs. Hannah Bonilla, Democrat.

The evening was distinguished by a spirited discussion of all issues pertinent to the present election and, in a question and answer period which followed, Dr. Hamilton answered queries concerning her stand on community recreation, long range planning on such vital subjects as sewage and water supply, improved police protection, construction of new sidewalks and maintenance of old ones, the condition of local roads and a variety of other timely issues.

When asked why she was running for office and what she would hope to accomplish as councilman, Dr. Hamilton said:

"The Town Board has been inactive for too long to the great detriment of a town which I love and where I intend to live for the rest of my life.

"It is optimistic to assume that I could change the thinking of the Town Board, but I could prod them a bit. Perhaps my election would open the door for others who care deeply about Woodstock and who can envision

Hadassah Slates Talk on Center

Mrs. Irving H. Gold, president of Lower New York State Region of Hadassah, will be guest speaker at the next meeting of Woodstock Hadassah. The meeting is planned for Wednesday, Oct. 26, at the home of Mrs. Pauline Luloff, 4 Streamside Terrace, Woodstock.

Mrs. Gold is expected to bring to the membership a wealth of information on the most recent activities of Hadassah, both in this country and abroad. She will tell of the contemplated building which will be constructed as part of Hadassah Hebrew University Medical Center in Jerusalem. A $1 million gift from the Siegfried and Irma Ullman Foundation has been contributed to the $3 million campaign for this project. Part of this sum will come from Israel sources.

Christian Science Notes Services

"Withhold not thou thy mercies from me, O Lord: let thy loving kindness and thy truth continually preserve me."

These words from Psalms are part of the responsive reading in this week's Christian Science lesson-sermon titled "Probation After Death." The lesson-sermon is read each Sunday in Christian Science churches throughout the world.

The sermon also includes these words from Hosea: "I will ransom them from the power of the grave; I will redeem them from death."

Among related passages to be read from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, is this: "The nature of Christianity is peaceful and blessed, but in order to enter into the kingdom, the anchor of hope must be cast beyond the veil of matter into the Shekinah into which Jesus has passed before us; and this advance beyond matter must come through the joys and triumphs of the righteous as well as through their sorrows and afflictions. Like our Master, we must depart from material sense into the spiritual sense of being."

Sunday services in Woodstock are held at 11 a. m.

Howe Show Extended Through October 31

The exhibit of paintings by Woodstock artist, Gordon Howe, which has been on view for several weeks at the Phoenixia Library, will continue for an additional two weeks. By popular demand, the show has been extended through Oct. 31.

Woodstocker Howe's "driftscapes" have attracted particularly enthusiastic attention, says a library spokesman. Painted on roughened pine slabs, the swirls and gnarls of the wood grain provides patterns which artist Howe fashions into pictures — pictures which contain realism with a touch of the supernatural.

3 Actors Are Needed

The White Angel, a 13-character play by Woodstock playwright and poet, Holly Beyer, is now in rehearsal. The play is being sponsored by the Performing Arts of Woodstock in early November and three roles must still be cast to fill out the roster of actors.

Actors interested in reading for the three remaining parts should contact Edith LeFever, who is listed in the Woodstock telephone directory. Still needed are a woman in her 40's and two men between the ages of 20 and 35.

Failed to Appear

Ralph Van Kleeck, 20, of Route 20, Box 215, Kingston, was picked up by Deputy Sheriff Gerald Miller Monday and turned over to the Kingston Police Department for appearance later in City Court before Judge Hubert Richter on a charge of failure to appear in City Court.

WORKING FOR MD—Mrs. John Collins and son, Gary, were on hand for the cake sale held recently at the A and P supermarket in Woodstock's Bradley Meadows shopping center, to benefit the Ulster County Chapter for Muscular Dystrophy. Gary, who is confined to a wheelchair, is one of 14 youngsters in this area who suffers from the dread disease. Workers for the Muscular Dystrophy Fund estimate that another $7,500 is needed to aid the children. Private donations are one way of helping since MD is not a member of the Community Chest. Those who would like to help are asked to send contributions to the John Collins Jr. Memorial MD Fund, Rondout National Bank, Woodstock. The fund has been established in the name of Gary's brother, who died as a result of MD this past summer.

Two preview showings were sold out in the 450-seat theater, but Levinson declined to estimate how many persons saw the film here.

Freckles in Tasmania

HOBART, Tasmania (AP) — Our Gang's Freckles, who earned $300 a week in one of the most popular comedy series of movie history, is now working on an iron ore project in the wilderness of Tasmania's west coast.

Mike Daniels, 50, got his first part when he was 5. The "Our Gang" series made him world famous, but he said he quit acting because he could not make a living at it.

Daniels now is materials supervisor with the Bechtel Pacific Corp., which is constructing a $70-million iron mine in western Tasmania.

"I have a home, a daughter, a grandson and an ex-wife in Los Angeles, but I don't get home often," he said.
